San Rafael Boy Held By Police

By JEFF GREER

A quarrel over a teen-ager's dog ended with a fatal shooting in a quiet San Rafael residential neighborhood today.

Erik Goldstreet, 22, died at 10:05 a.m. in Marin General Hospital, of gunshot wounds in the abdomen.

Moments earlier, Douglas Spencer Harvey, 15, of 15 Clark Street, San Rafael surrendered himself to Larkspur Police Chief Howard Clark. The boy was walking in the 600 block of Magnolia Avenue; the Doberman pinscher that apparently spurred the deadly argument was at his side.

The shooting took place at 9:30 a.m. in the Clark Street home where Goldstreet had rented a room for the last three months. There was no witness, police said.

As Inspector Bart Stinson and other officers reconstructed the shooting: Goldstreet drove to the home early this morning, after the boy's mother, Doris Harvey, had left for her job at the San Francisco Presidio.

Apparently the boy and Goldstreet argued violently. Goldstreet was wounded with a 16-gauge shotgun which was found on a bed. One empty shell lay on the floor nearby.

Goldstreet staggered from the house, down a steep driveway and into the street, where he collapsed in front of his car.

Two passers-by, Jack McLeskey of Kelseyville, Lake County, and Joe Schweitzer, who lives a block from the Harvey residence, called an ambulance. San Rafael Police Lt. Lincoln Borba, another neighbor, called police.

The boy was seen running into the dense brush of the hillside at the southerly end of Clark Street. Borba gave chase, but young Harvey made his way to Larkspur while police combed the Ross and Kentfield areas.

Clark reported that he stopped the boy who said, "I'm Douglas Harvey Spencer. You're looking for me."

"Why am I looking for you?" Clark asked.

"Well, I just shot a fellow."

The boy was turned over to San Rafael police, who took him to the station for questioning. No charge had been filed by noon.

The boy's mother was called home from her job.

"This is bad, I can't believe it," she said, fighting back tears.

She said Goldstreet moved out of the home last week after living there since December. Goldstreet, employed at the San Francisco Post Office, had told the Harveys he was moving into a Berkeley commune, the woman said.

She said that her son and Goldstreet had quarrelled repeatedly in recent days over young Harvey's pet dog.

"Doug was just frantic the other day. Erik took his dog downtown and lost it," Mrs. Harvey said. "He was up half the night finding the dog."

Mrs. Harvey said she did not know whether her son stayed home from classes at San Rafael High School today, or whether Goldstreet came to the home before he had left. She said Goldstreet still had a few belongings in the home, including an aquarium, and was still using her home to receive his mail. He had a key to the house.

Goldstreet and the boy had argued over the roomer's move into a hippie commune, too, Mrs. Harvey said. "Doug had looked up to him; he sort of lost faith."

Neighbors expressed shock at the deadly outburst.

Borba said he did not know

Auditorium Uses Upset Veterans

By MARY LEYDECKER

Veteran's organizations who feel they've "been led down a golden path" will ask that the word "veterans" be removed from the name of the almost-finished auditorium at the Marin Civic Center.

The request, expected to go before the board of supervisors next month, is the culmination of a long-time feud between the veterans, who envisioned a more traditional veterans' memorial auditorium, and county officials.

"We don't want our name associated with those toe dancers and hippie hoppers," said Roy Partridge, co-chairman of the Marin County United Veterans Council, a committee made up of representatives of various veterans groups.

Partridge apparently was referring to cultural events planned for the auditorium, slated to open in September.

"We wanted a convention center which would bring in good old convention money," Partridge said yesterday, adding, "We don't want to be associated with anything that is going to be a drag on the taxpayers."

He said he doubted the new auditorium would be a paying propositon.

The veterans also had long wanted and expected a meeting room for veterans' organizations at the auditorium, but such a room was not included in plans presented by Frank Lloyd Wright Foundation architects as early as 1965.

The veterans' council is circulating a resolution to all veterans' groups in the county asking that the word "veterans" be removed from the name and expects to present it to the supervisors sometime next month.

"We are also going to make a

Delay In Federal Funds Holds Hilarita Housing Groundbreaking

By WAT TAKESHITA

Groundbreaking for 112 units of moderate income housing at the Hilarita Housing Project in Tiburon has been delayed at least until next year because federal funding failed to come through in time.

As a result, the 88 units of existing housing at Hilarita, which were scheduled for closing by June 30, will be kept open until next year and perhaps longer.

The delay in funding was made public yesterday by Martin Mackey, executive director of the Ecumenical Association for Housing in Marin. Mackey said he learned of the delay three weeks ago and immediately notified the Marin County Housing Authority, which owns Hilarita.

Mackey said plans for the 112 units have not changed. The only change is a delay in funding that pushes back the date of groundbreaking from Sept. 15 to Jan. 15.

The Tiburon Ecumenical Association, a sub-group of the county ecumenical group, has an option to buy eight acres at Hilarita from the housing authority at a price of not less than $500 or more than $1,000 per unit of new housing, the exact amount to be negotiated. The purchase option runs until July 1.

Mackey said the ecumenical association cannot pick up the option by July but will renegotiate the option with the housing authority next January.

Faced with the delay in housing and Urban Development Department funding, directors of the housing authority have ordered a halt to plans to close Hilarita's 88 units by June 30.

Wallace K. Shepherd, executive director of the authority, said yesterday that he has asked Assemblyman William T.

Senate Panel Backs SST; House Kills It

White House Has Plans For Alternative Funds

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Appropriations Committee voted today to provide funds to continue development of the supersonic transport denied by a House vote and the White House said President Nixon would propose alternate ways of financing the plane if Congress balks.

The 17-5 committee voted kept alive hopes that the Senate would salvage the controversial project in a floor vote next week.

The House voted 215 to 204 Thursday against spending any more government money to develop two prototypes of the faster-than-sound transport after March 30 when present authorization ends.

The Senate agreed to take up the SST issue on Tuesday and to vote on it at 4:30 p.m. EST Wednesday.

The Senate also passed 71-0 a bill designed to prohibit the flight of commercial planes over the continental United States at supersonic speeds except for research in the SST program.

The bill also would require SST contractors to demonstrate that the prototype they build "can comply" with noise limitations which now apply to subsonic planes, including the 747 and the DC9. The bill was proposed by the plane's proponents in an effort to calm fears the SST would upset the environment.

At the White House, press secretary Ronald Ziegler told newsmen that if the Senate should go along with the House in cutting off funds, then Nixon would come up with alternate proposals for financing the SST development project.

Ziegler refused to discuss possible alternatives but ruled out the use of contingency funds as a method of financing on grounds that there were not sufficient funds to do this.

"We would be prepared to listen to suggestions because the President has stated his thinking regarding the SST," Ziegler said. "Our position is that the SST prototypes should be developed."

One method for such financing would be through a government guaranteed loan to the private firms involved in SST work.

Ziegler said the President was hopeful the Senate would restore the funds and the House would reverse itself. He reiterated that thousands of jobs would be lost and millions of dollars already spent would go down the drain if the development is not continued.

If the Senate does not act favorably, Ziegler said, "a

Inflation Slows Up In February

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The cost of living rose 0.2 per cent in February, the second straight month the increase was well below the inflation-plagued average of the last two years, the Labor Department said today.

But the February report of the Consumer Price Index showed some of the largest items in the average family's budget —food, clothing and medical care, —continue to increase substantially. Increases in these items were partially offset by declines in mortgage interest rates and the price of used cars.

The Consumer Price Index advanced in February to 119.4 per cent of the 1967 average. That means it cost $11.94 last month to buy the same assortment of goods that could have been obtained for $11.92 in January, $11.39 a year ago and $10 a little more than three years ago.

The February index was 4.8 per cent higher than it was a year earlier, the smallest 12-month rise since February, 1969.

The February increase also was 0.2 per cent on a seasonally adjusted basis. In January, prices rose 0.1 per cent without adjustment or .3 per cent on a seasonally adjusted basis.

Taken together, the January and February increases were well below the average of about 0.5 per cent recorded in most of 1969 and 1970.

Labor Secretary James D. Hodgson told newsmen the latest figures were encouraging evidence the administration is "clearly headed in the right direction" in its fight against inflation.

Agnew Says Public Can't Rely On CBS

NEWTON, Mass. (UPI)—Vice President Spiro T. Agnew said today he had "no thoughts" of intimidating the national press but his latest attack on Columbia Broadcasting System (CBS) was aimed at showing the public "they cannot rely on CBS for facts" in its documentaries.

"I think the national media are big boys now," Agnew said. "I think they're big enough to stand a little criticism."

Agnew met with more than a dozen newsmen and broadcasters in an informal panel following his comments Thursday night in which he charged CBS was guilty of the same distortion and control of information of which the network accused the Pentagon in a recent TV documentary.

"I don't say CBS is untrustworthy," he said, sitting at the head of a long table. What he intended to show, the vice president said, was "the media are not infallible—and they have acted as if they were.

"It's time they realized their infallibility is less than concrete," Agnew said.

He started the hourlong question and answer session by saying, "I have no thoughts of

FORMER CHIEF JUSTICE EARL WARREN
Reminisces on his court years

Warren Turns 80; Praises The Young

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Former Chief Justice Earl Warren turned 80 today, with praise for the nation's young people and a warning that conflict of interest poses one of the greatest evils to the government of the republic.

White-haired, grandfatherly and looking healthy, Warren reminisced about his epochal years on the court and said the college seminars he has been conducting since his retirement have renewed his faith in the young.

"In the main," he said in an interview in his Supreme Court office, "our young people are far more knowledgeable about what's going on in the world than they were in my day as a youth. They are more concerned, motivated to play a part.

"I like young people. There are a few destructionists. But I still think the majority of them are good, forward-looking young people who want to improve things," he added.

Looking at the nation's judicial system, Warren said if a man has a way of life that demands more money than a federal judge makes "then he can't afford to be a judge."

"There are certain things that people can't do if they are going to be in certain positions. It's the same with cabinet positions. If they can't afford to take the job, then they shouldn't take it.

"A conflict of interest is one of the most evil things in government today," he said. "It should be of tremendous concern to the citizenry of the country."

Warren added that when he was on the bench he never felt free to play the stock market because the conglomerate nature of many businesses made it impossible to know when a conflict of interest might pop up.

Of his years on the Court Warren said he was disappointed that school desegregation had not progressed faster but he is not frustrated. He added that he was happy to have served the court at a time when the most controversial problems came up.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

'Serious Break'

MEXICO CITY (UPI)—Mexico's expulsion of five Soviet diplomats Thursday night was "the most serious act short of a break in relations" between Mexico City and Moscow, a Communist source said today. He said the move took the Soviets completely by surprise.

The expulsion order was issued 72 hours after the government said it had smashed a subversive plot by Mexican guerrillas trained in Moscow and North Korea. It also followed Mexico's recall of its ambassador from Moscow for an indeterminate period.

Foreign Minister Emilio O. Rabasa did not relate the expulsions to the alleged plot, and refused to answer all questions from newsmen on that point.

To Try Coalition

ANKARA (UPI) — Nihat Erim, a 58-year-old college proffessor and political veteran with strong pro-Western Feelings, agreed today to try to form a new government for Turkey.

Erim, a member of the opposition Republican People's Party for many years, said President Cevdet Sunay asked him Thursday night to try to form a new coalition government.

"It is 90 per cent certain he can do it," a government source said.

Success for Erim would make him Turkey's 18th Premier and resolve a political and military crisis which began last Friday when Premier Suleyman Demirel resigned under threat of a military coup.

Ford Plant Bomb

LONDON (UPI)—A time-bomb exploded in an office building of the strike-bound Ford Motor Company today. Police evacuated the Cafe Royal near another Ford establishment after a bomb scare.

Police said no one was injured when the predawn blast from a fused bomb ripped through the basement of the 14-story steel and glass Thames House housing Ford offices in Ilford, 10 miles east of London. The explosion blew in a basement door and shattered nearby shop windows.

In London, police cleared the Cafe Royal of a lunchtime crowd minutes after an anonymous caller said a dynamite bomb had been planted in the restaurant. The establishment is next to the Regent Street showrooms of the Ford Company. Police searched the restaurant but found no bomb.

SALT Session

VIENNA (UPI)—Soviet and American negotiators met for 75 minutes at the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT) today and officials said they tried to see "whether they can take concrete steps toward agreement."

The officials said the two sides met at the U.S. embassy in an atmosphere of "seriousness." The formal meeting lasted 55 minutes, with both sides reading prepared statements, followed by 20 minutes of informal conversation.

It was the second session of the new Vienna round of SALT. The third meeting will be in the Soviet embassy next Tuesday.

Little Chance

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The ranking Republican on the Senate Finance Committee sees little chance Congress will increase Social Security taxes this year —as President Nixon asked —to pay for the higher benefits which start June 3.

In signing legislation Wednesday providing a 10 per cent increase in benefits retroactive to Jan. 1, Nixon criticized Congress for abandoning "the cardinal principle" of providing increased revenue whenever it increases benefits.

Sen. Wallace F. Bennett, R-Utah, said he agreed with Nixon. He said the higher benefits, without higher taxes, would merely add more heat to the nation's inflation.

But, said Bennett, "I can't see any real possibility that there will be a bill soon to change the tax rate this year."

Extremist Clamp

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI)—British troops today halted more than 400 automobiles in the most intense campaign yet against extremists in Northern Ireland. The search of cars began after terrorists bombed a shrine of the Irish Republican Army (IRA).

The troops set up roadblocks at every major route into Belfast as part of a stepped-up drive to bolster Premier James Chichester-Clark's hard-pressed government. Border areas also were subjected to increased attention.

Army spokesmen said the check on Belfast traffic was the biggest ever undertaken by security troops.

U.S. Regrets Norway's Hanoi Recognition

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The State Department says it "much regrets" that the new government of Norway plans to extend diplomatic recognition to North Vietnam.

A spokesman said the United States does not believe Norway should recognize "a regime in North Vietnam which is attempting to overthrow by force the elected constitutional government of South Vietnam and which is conducting active hostilities against the armed forces of the United States."

$45,000 Savings In Welfare Forms

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) —The State Social Welfare Department has surveyed its paperwork and found 1,200 forms which are nonessential or duplicates.

So, the agency said Thursday, they are being thrown out at a saving to taxpayers of $45,000 a year.

Incursion Of Israeli Jets Cited

By United Press International

Egypt's semiofficial Middle East News Agency said two Israeli F4 Phantom jets penetrated Egyptian air space today but were forced to flee by "Egyptian defense methods." It did not elaborate.

The duty officer at the Israeli military liaison office in Tel Aviv refused to confirm or deny the reports. "We have no comment to make," he said.

MENA said the incursion was in the area of Port Fuad at the exit of the Suez Canal to the Mediterranean and "they were intercepted by Egyptian defense methods which forced them to flee eastward."

It did not indicate if the defense methods were aircraft, Soviet-installed SAM2 and SAM3 missiles or antiaircraft artillery, but it was the first report of such action since the first Middle East truce began last summer.

Both sides have accused the other of sending over planes on reconnaissance missions but there never before was any indication of retaliatory action. MENA said Egyptian officials informed the International Truce Commission of the reported incursion.

U.S. Copters Airlift Weary Saigon Troops

SAIGON (UPI)—U.S. helicopters today airlifted to safety South Vietnamese troops who abandoned their westernmost combat base in Laos. Some evacuated South Vietnamese troops said "we would rather surrender than fight any more."

Field commanders said 1,000 South Vietnamese infantrymen were airlifted from Artillery Base "Brown" and taken to Artillery Base "Delta 1," nine miles inside Laos.

It was the 10th fixed base evacuated by South Vietnamese forces or overrun by North Vietnamese troops since the start of the Allied drive into Laos Feb. 8 in an effort to cut the Ho Chi Minh Trail, the primary Communist supply line into South Vietnam and Cambodia.

Some 3,000 South Vietnamese Marines and Rangers were flown to the border as replacements for withdrawn government troops, many battered units.

American helicopter crewmen who have run into intense antiaircraft fire throughout the Laotian campaign, accomplished the latest withdrawal from "Brown" with only light ground fire reported.

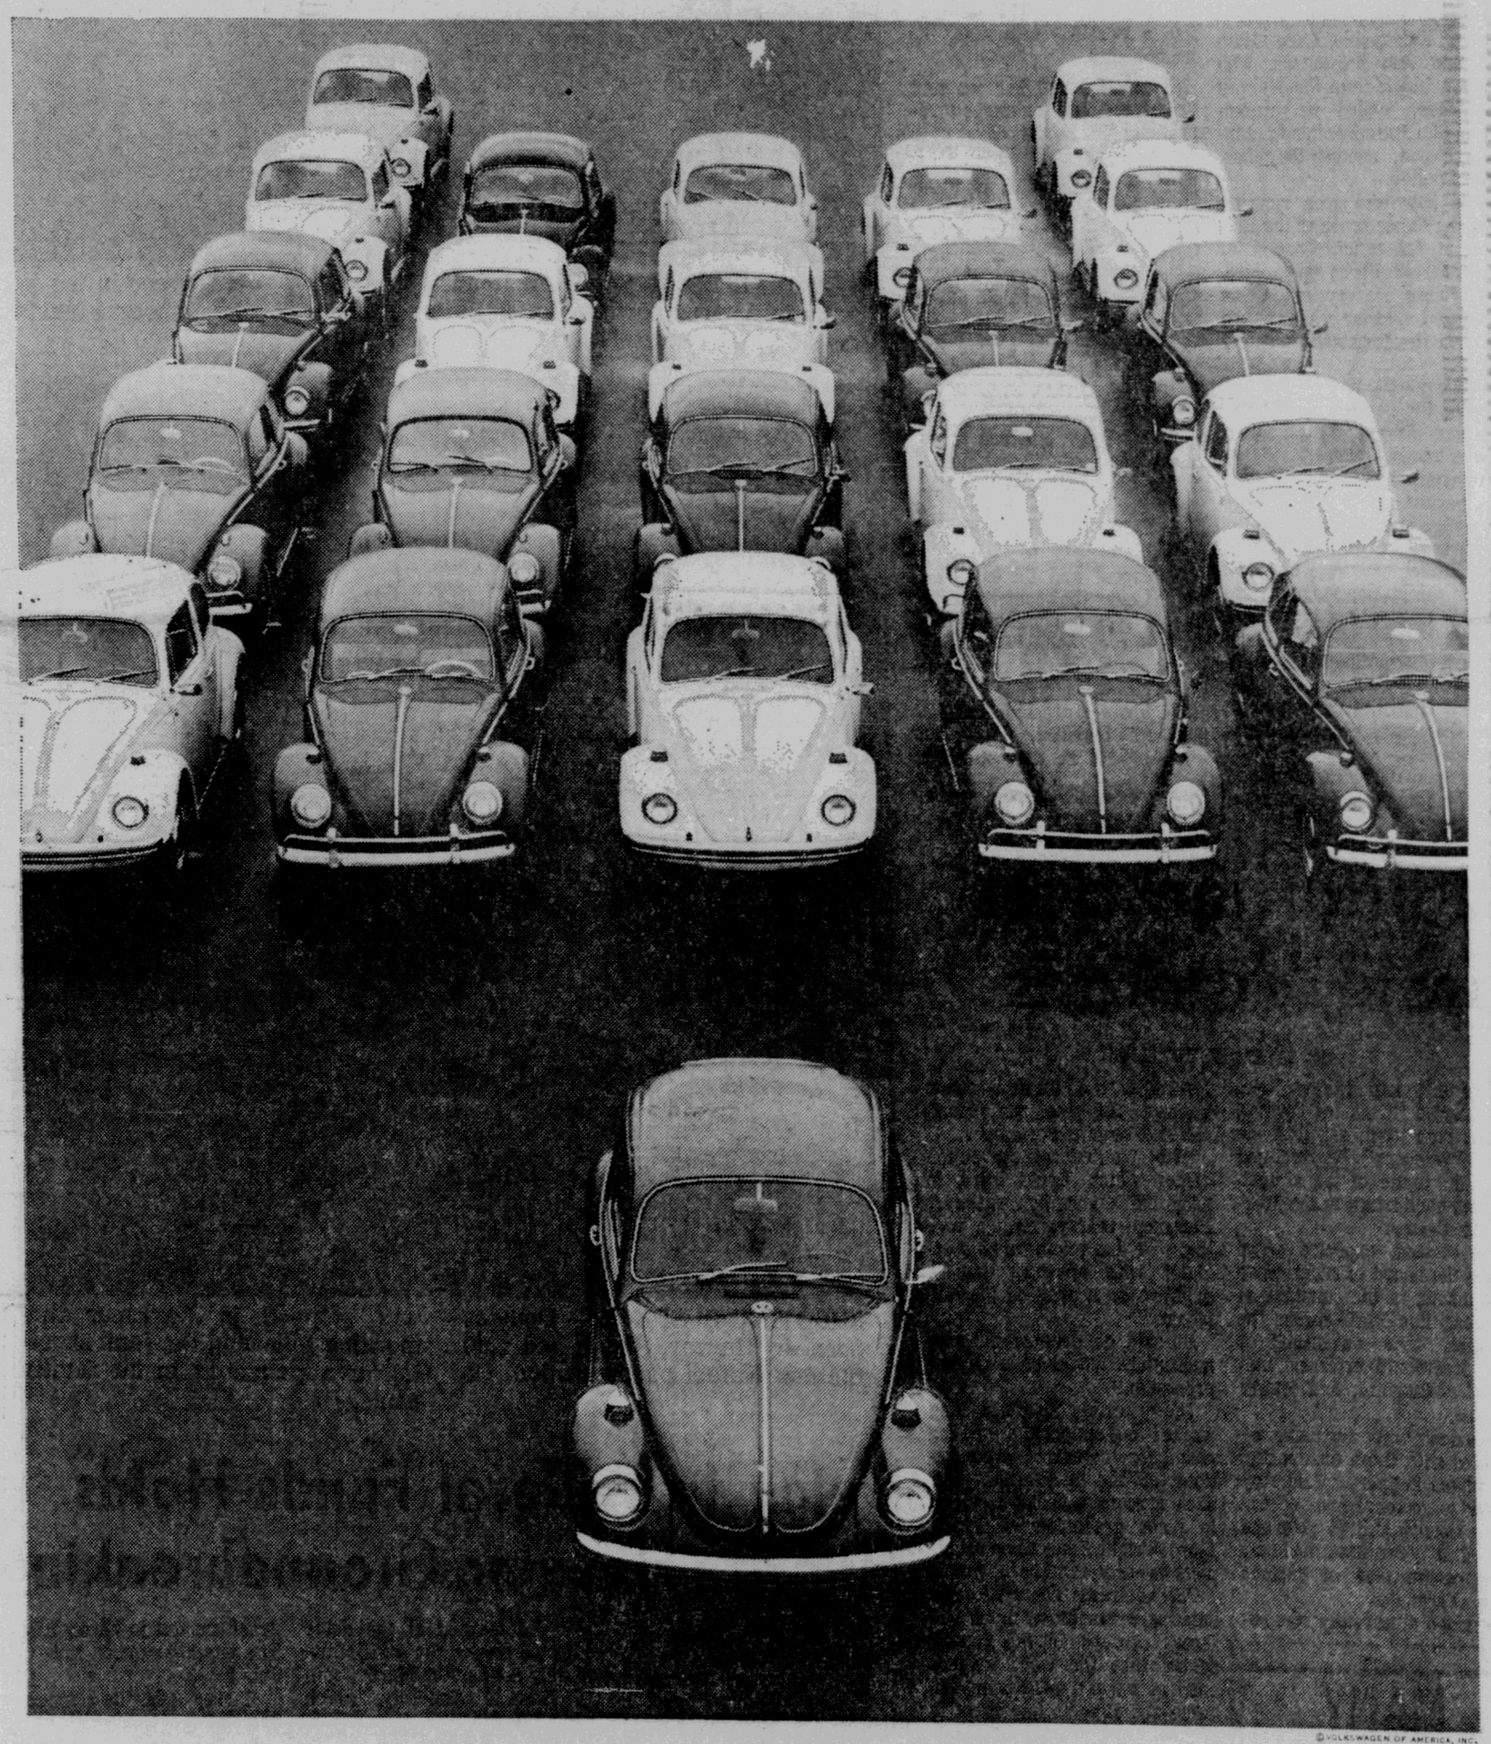
But the U.S. Command said four more helicopters were shot down and destroyed Thursday over Laos—two shot down and two hit by gunfire on the ground. One American was wounded and two missing in the loss of two AH1 Cobras, a UH1 Huey and a big cargo-carrying CH47 Chinook.

South Vietnamese spokesmen in Saigon said today some 18,000 government troops were still in Laos from a peak of 24,000 on March 6 when the key Ho Chi Minh Trail junction of Sepone was captured.

Military sources said, however, less than 15,000 South Vietnamese were still inside Laos, many having been withdrawn unannounced early this week.

Saigon officials said from 20,000 to 30,000 Communist troops are in the government area of operations in Laos with 20,000 more who "could be committed in a two or three-day period."

As an indication of the massive U.S. air support given the South Vietnamese operation in Laos, spokesmen reported that more than 1,750 helicopter sorties were flown across the border Thursday along with 350 air strikes by Air Force, Navy, Marine Corps and Vietnamese fighter-bombers. The Air Force also sent 10 B52 bomber missions into the Laotian lower panhandle.



We have a great future behind us.

The Beetle we make today bears a striking resemblance to the 22 Beetles that preceded it.

That's because we invested all of our time in making a Volkswagen run better, instead of wasting our time making it look different.

To date, we've changed and improved our basic model thousands of times.

And some things we left alone.

Our air-cooled engine is still impervious to temperatures of 10 below and 110 above.

And when you part company with a Volkswagen, you still get something tangible to remember it by. Something green.

In fact, according to the NADA Official Used Car Guide, the same Volkswagen Beetle that sold for about $500 less than the average economy car three years ago, now sells for about $200 more.

So today, as we look at all the new economy cars trying to learn in one year what it took Volkswagen 23 years to learn, we can muse on something somebody said almost 200 years ago.

"The best index of the future is the past."

Because if that's true, we have a beautiful past to look forward to.

Closing One Block Of Caledonia For Park Area Is Recommended

The Sausalito Planning Commission has recommended that a one-block area of Caledonia Street, between the city's police and fire stations, be closed as a public street, Planning Director H. Eric Borgwardt reported.

The commission agreed to permanent closure of the street, between Johnson Street and Bridgeway, on Wednesday. That portion of Caledonia has been closed on a temporary basis since remodeling of the fire station began last March.

Borgwardt said the planners approved the closure on condition that two dwellings adjacent to the police station on Johnson be retained by the city as low cost housing. He said the dwellings were slated for removal to make room for police department parking which will now be available on the closed street.

The commission also suggested that pedestrian access on Caledonia be "maintained and enhanced," according to the planning director. The planner's proposal also calls for development of a children's play area east of the firehouse, complete with sandboxes, swings and slides and a vintage fire truck from the 1920s.

The commission's recommendation will now go to the Sausalito City Council for final approval.

Thieves Take 22 Art Works

LODI, Italy (UPI)—Thieves who came looking for cash walked off with 22 art works by some of Europe's great masters in a predawn theft from a luxury restaurant Thursday.

They passed up even better works, apparently because they had not planned on stealing art works and did not have time to take large paintings with them, restaurant owner Gianfranco Meani said.

Meani, owner of the "Isola Caprera" restaurant in this town 20 miles southwest of Milan in the Po valley, said the collection, including works by Renoir, Breughel and Manet was put together by his father, Leonardo, a noted tenor in the 1930s.

Tiburon's Pitch To Chamber Musicians

The Tiburon Parks and Recreation Commission, long on desire to sponsor a spring concert but short on funds, last night appealed to Marin chamber musicians to volunteer their services.

Clerk Helen Hecht said the concert tentatively had been set for this month but funding problems have delayed it.

Commissioners, hoping to stage the first of an annual series of concerts, discussed the possibility of charging admission to pay musicians. Any profit could be donated to the Little League Program at Del Mar School.

Mrs. Hecht said commissioners also formed a citizens committee to begin planning the third annual Ayala Day to be held Sept. 25. Volunteers for the committee should apply at city hall, she said.

young Harvey well, but had often seen him industriously tending the garden and making repairs on the small, white frame house.

"Doug is a very nice boy," another neighbor asserted. "He loves that dog very much, and the man (Goldstreet) didn't like the dog."

Neighbors characterized the dead man as "hippie type" but said that young Harvey was not a hippie. Police records indicate the boy had no major record.

intimidation. I have no thoughts of asking for stronger laws." His primary purpose, he said, was "simply to show the people they cannot rely on CBS documentaries for facts."

He said he would not defend the Pentagon against the documentary "The Selling of the Pentagon," televised Feb. 23 by CBS, because Defense Department officials had asked they be given the chance to respond. However, he said officers were quoted in two instances when, in fact, the quotes were not continuous or not their own—yet they were presented as being continuous or being their own.

Agnew said there was a "great reluctance to criticize the media by another organ of the media" and challenged the press to gain a quality of "introspection" on its policies and performances.

In Boston Thursday night, Agnew said CBS' "The Selling of the Pentagon" failed to observe the adage about people living in glass houses throwing stones.

The vice president quoted the CBS script as saying, "Nothing is more important to a democracy than the free flow of information. Misinformation, distortion and propaganda all interrupt that flow."

"It is the CBS television," he said, "not the Department of Defense that leaves much to be desired in terms of the free flow of information."

In New York CBS President Frank Stanton called Agnew "mistaken."

Stanton said "The Selling of the Pentagon" has been praised by "distinguished Americans from all walks of life. It has been criticized. But we believe that it is an important and valuable job of journalistic investigative reporting."

A crowd of about 3,000 antiwar demonstrators massed in front of the Sheraton-Boston hotel, where Agnew was speaking to the Middlesex Club, the nation's oldest Republican organization.

Hundreds Die In Peruvian Slide

LIMA, Peru (UPI)—A massive landslide sparked by heavy rain fell into a mountain lake in northeast Peru Thursday and ensuing floods wiped out a mining camp with heavy loss of life, police said Friday.

"The number of deaths ascend to approximately 400 to 600 out of a total of 1,000 miners," a regional police spokesman said.

A spokesman in Lima for the Chungar Mining Co., which operated the camp, said it had "practically disappeared" under tons of water. He said 50 to 70 miners had been hospitalized in nearby towns and villages.

Simard Named Shakespeare Fest Manager

Ernest E. Simard II of San Francisco has been chosen general manager of the Marin Shakespeare Festival.

Simard, 29, presently is general manager of the American Conservatory Theatre. He worked with the Festival last year as consultant in purchasing and coffee house management.

The University of the Pacific economics and drama graduate was hired recently by the Festival's Board of Directors. The board also elected new officers, all residents of San Rafael. They are:

PRICES

He said that the price of commodities other than food had actually declined for the first time since 1965 if read on a seasonally adjusted basis.

The report, indicating a slowdown in inflation, was about the only good news the February economic statistics held for the Nixon Administration's economic strategists.

Reports announced earlier showed industrial production declined last month and personal income recorded an increase about half as sharp as the average for last year. Wholesale prices increased 0.9 per cent in February, the sharpest rise in 17 years.

Prices of food purchased in grocery stores, which usually decline slightly in February, rose 0.4 per cent. The price of beef and veal was up more than usual, and fresh fruit and vegetable prices also increased substantially.

The price of apparel increased 0.4 per cent, but that included a sharp 0.9 per cent advance in the cost of womens' clothing.

Medical care increased 0.7 per cent last month.

Offsetting the advances, mortgage interest rates declined sharply in February and the cost of used cars dropped as did average gasoline prices, chiefly on the basis of dips on the west coast and in Detroit.

The Department also announced that the purchasing power of the nation's rank-and-file workers declined 0.1 per cent in February as a result of the increase in the cost of living.

Gross weekly earnings of production workers remained essentially unchanged at $122.24 in February with a one-cent rise in hourly earnings offset by a reduction of 0.1 hour in the average work week.

Kidnap Story Proves False

The case of Steven Wayne Fickess, 18, of Fairfield, Solano County, was transferred yesterday to Marin Juvenile Court.

Pickess is charged with making a false police report in connection with a story he told Novato police Monday of being kidnapped in Fairfield and later abandoned in Novato by two men.

He later admitted he made up the story.

pitch to get our money back." Partridge said, referring to a special county tax levied since before World War II to provide funds for a veterans' memorial of some type.

Veterans' representatives were not unanimous in their approval of the resolution, however.

Richard Miehling, long-time American Legion officer who also was a member of the defunct Fair-Marin board that once was to run the auditorium, disagreed with Partridge.

Although Miehling said he felt veterans "were sold down the river by the supervisors," he observed that the auditorium "will still be a memorial to those who gave their lives in wars."

He pointed out that the funds for the auditorium are "taxpayers' money," not the gift of veterans organizations which he described as a "minority" of the county's population.

Miehling said that former Supervisor Peter H. Behr, now a state senator, promised "there would be a meeting hall for veterans" in the auditorium.

"There is not one inch of space for meetings" in the new auditorium, Miehling claimed, adding that it will be "an opera house for a few."

Although Miehling is disappointed that the auditorium didn't turn out to be the type of building he and other veterans envisioned, he still feels elected officials have a right to build any type of veterans memorial they choose.

County officials disagreed completely with the veterans, saying the auditorium could be used as a convention center.

Thomas F. Campenella, assistant county administrator charged with running the auditorium, conceded, "We're short of meeting rooms."

He said, however, that he still felt that the building "would work out well" for conventions by using the auditorium in connection with nearby motels, where smaller gatherings would be held.

Furthermore, Marin Auditor-Controller Michael Mitchell said that the supervisors were not "legally bound" to use taxes set aside for a veterans' memorial for that purpose.

About $500,000 was collected during the period before the supervisors decided to go ahead with the auditorium about five years ago.

In addition to $1,786,525 from Marin property taxes, and interest, an additional $1,176,000 has been plunked into the building from state parimutuel money, bringing the total spent to date to almost $3 million.

Until last year, the supervisors had planned a 900-seat auditorium, hoping that the citizen group, Fair-Marin, would raise funds to make it a 2,100-seat facility, thus attracting major entertainment.

When Fair-Marin failed to come up with the money, supervisors themselves took over operation of the auditorium and in February voted money to increase the seating to 2,100.

The auditorium also contains a large flat area where displays and exhibits can be placed.

Injured Man Is Booked

A 55-year-old Petaluma man, injured yesterday at 7 p.m. in a two-car collision in Novato, was booked into Marin County jail on suspicion of drunken driving.

Thomas James Branch, of 37 El Rose Drive, was released on his promise to appear in Marin Municipal Court Thursday.

The California Highway Patrol said his car, southbound on Nave Drive near Ignacio Boulevard, crossed the double yellow lines and collided with a car driven by Michael J. Benoit, 21, of Summit City, Shasta County.

HOUSING

Bagley, R-San Rafael, to introduce legislation asking to keep Hilarita open until 1975. The state had ordered all World War II housing — such as Hilarita — to be phased out by the end of this year.

Shepherd acknowledged that the Tiburon Ecumenical Association hopes to renegotiate a new purchase option next Jan. 15. However, said Shepherd, the authority cannot take any chances on further funding delays from HUD. Therefore, he asked Bagley for an extension until 1975.

The Hilarita project was the center of a controversy last year before the Tiburon City Council and Planning Commission when residents in the area protested the 112-unit density.

After a series of public hearings, the Tiburon City Council last June approved a master plan for 112 units to replace the existing 88 units on eight acres of land. Hilarita property consists of 12.8 acres in all. When and if the ecumenical association buys the eight acres, six units of single-family homes will be allowed on the remaining 4.8 acres, with about 2.8 acres kept in open space, according to the master plan.

Innocent Plea In Peyote Case

Robert Allen LaSalle, 28, of no known address, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to a charge of possessing peyote.

A preliminary hearing was set for Thursday.

LaSalle was arrested Wednesday when San Anselmo police investigated a trespassing complaint after he set up a tent on private property near 259 Redwood Road.

Five "buttons" of the suspected drug were found in his knapsack, according to police.

Burglary Case To Lower Court

The case of Steven Curtis Law, 18, of Novato, was transferred yesterday to Marin Juvenile Court.

Law is charged with burglary in connection with his arrest Saturday at Novato High School at 12:45 a.m.

Three youths apprehended with Law were previously cited to juvenile authorities.

number of suggestions will be forthcoming on how to deal with it."

Emerging from the hour-long, closed Appropriations meeting, Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., leader of the Senate fight against the SST, told reporters "now we'll go back to the floor."

Asked if the prospects for eliminating funds for the SST were good, Proxmire said: "We hope so, we don't know. It's very close."

The Senate defeated a proposal to continue funding the SST project late last session by a narrow margin, but opponents of the project cautioned that the new Senate Line-up might reverse the House action.

Republican and Democratic leaders of the Senate agreed today the House vote Thursday dims the chances that the Senate will vote to keep the project alive.

Republican leader Hugh Scott said the project was "not exactly advanced" by the adverse House action.

Both leaders made their statements prior to the Senate committee action, however.

Sen. Allan J. Ellender, D-La., chairman of the Appropriations Committee, said following the committee vote:

"We're going to have quite a fight," he predicted. "It's going to be very close."

The five committee members voting against further funding of what some have called "a flying Edsel" were Sens. Mansfield, Proxmire, Clifford P. Case, R-N.J.; Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., and Edward W. Brooke, R-Mass.

Sen. John O. Pastore, D-R.I., and Joseph M. Montoya, D-N.M., were absent and did not vote but Pastore told reporters he would have voted against the SST had he been present.

A white House aide said President Nixon was "naturally disappointed" at the House action killing a $134 million appropriation to continue the project until June 30. But the aide said, "The President is hopeful that the Senate will restore the funds for the prototypes."

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., leading the battle against the plane, cautioned supporters "the SST is still very much alive."

"On the floor of the Senate the division on the issue has been very close," Proxmire said. "It is possible that the House vote will give us just the advantage we need to win, but victory against the SST is far from certain."

The poll showed 48 votes against future funding of the SST; 45 supporters of the jetliners; two senators leaning for the project, three against; and two absentees.

The original cost estimate to build two prototypes was $1.3 billion, of which Congress has already approved $860 million. In his fiscal 1972 budget, Nixon requested an additional $235 million.

Late last year, the House approved 205 to 185 Nixon's request for $290 million to proceed with development of the SST in fiscal 1971. The Senate, however, voted 52 to 41, to stop further work.

Faced with a session-ending filibuster by SST opponents, Congress agreed to extend the project until March 30 at an annual spending rate of $210 million.

Abrupt Close Of Computer School To Be Probed

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The office of Attorney General Evelle Younger said today it is investigating the abrupt closing of computer training schools operated by Computer Institute, Inc., in San Francisco and San Jose.

The schools closed Thursday, and students had paid $1,695 each for a 33-week course in computer programing. The San Jose school had 66 students, and the San Francisco school a similar number.

"This is very unusual," said Frank H. Leavitt of the State Department of Education.

"Normally a school knowing it is in distress will teach a course through, and refuse to accept new students, so none are stranded."

Hearing Set On Whaling Ban

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Commerce Department today scheduled a public hearing March 29 in San Francisco to discuss the proposed ban on commercial whaling by Americans and ships operating from American ports.

Commerce Secretary Maurice H. Stans issued the order March 2. Its requests for a hearing filed by several interested companies prevented it from becoming effective immediately.

The order would ban hunting for fin, sei and sperm whales, the only species now sought by U. S. commercial whalers. Only one whaling company now operates regularly from a U. S. port and it is located at Richmond, Calif.

Trustees See Plan For Creek Planting

Trustees of the Marin Junior College District last night viewed a proposal to hide the concrete flood control channel that runs through the College of Marin campus with extensive landscaping.

The plan, which would include planting of trees and installation of paths and walkways, was offered by the district's landscaped architect, Ernest Wertheim of San Francisco, according to Earlene Jones, district publicist.

The project, if ultimately approved by the board, would be completed in stages next fiscal year. Mrs. Jones said the board received the plans only on an informational basis last night and no cost estimates were given.

The Marin Junior College Board Also:

POLICE — Refused to grant credit for a police-community relations course sponsored by the Marin County Police-Community Relations Program, saying officers taking the course could get credit from the College of Marin if they passed an examination given in a police sciences course given by the school.

DEMOLITION — Approved landscaping to be saved in demolition of the old science and communications buildings at the College of Marin. The new college library is slated for the area, pending availability of funds.

MEETINGS — Scheduled meetings at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the college testing office to discuss faculty salaries and at 7 p.m. Thursday to discuss educational specifications and master planning for the Novato campus.

OFFICER — Authorized a search for a new classified personnel officer to replace John Buxton, who resigned to take a better-paying job.

PRESIDENT — Heard that a committee screening 74 applicants for the post of north campus president is expected to make a recommendation for appointment by Tuesday.

CONCERT — Said it wanted to review policy in connection with permitting rock concerts on campus. The board had no criticism of a concert Feb. 28 in the college gymnasium which was permitted after a long-imposed ban on such events.

LEASE — Learned that its lease on a warehouse on Mariposa Avenue, San Anselmo, would not be renewed June 30 and that the district must seek another site for apprenticeship programs and equipment storage.

APPLICATION — Authorized applying for $14,499 in federal funds for library books.

Conviction In Price Fixing

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Three manufacturers of gypsum wallboard are liable for millions of dollars in damages for fixing prices in violation of anti-trust laws, a U.S. district judge ruled Thursday.

Judge Alfonso J. Zirpolo decided against U.S. Gypsum Co. of Chicago, Kaiser Gypsum Co. of Oakland and National Gypsum Corp. of Buffalo, N.Y. in a case filed in 1967.

Six wallboard dealers brought the civil suit against the three firms and Fibreboard Corp. of San Francisco. Zirpoli dismissed the charges against Fibreboard after a trial running from Oct. 27, 1969, to March 19, 1970.

Shoreline Teachers Ask Raise

Shoreline Unified School District teachers proposed last night to the district board that their salary schedule be raised from 10 to 13 per cent.

Supt. Charles A. McCully said the Shoreline Education Association asked that starting salaries be in the range of $7,400 to $7,600 a year and top salaries from $14,200 to $14,600.

The current salary schedule is from $6,732 to $12,943 a year and applies to both elementary and high school teachers.

McCully said he hadn't calculated what the proposed raises would cost. After the proposal was submitted, the board met in closed session with McCully, its representative, in salary negotiations.

Two Health Panelists Quit

The Comprehensive Health Planning Council of Marin County has accepted the resignations of two members, Martin L. Griffin and Edward J. Parnell, who said they had other pressing business.

Michael L. Ingerman, county health planner, said the council's nominating committee was reviewing recommendations for replacements and he urged interested persons to telephone him at the Marin Civic Center.

In other matters at its meeting Wednesday, the council reviewed a draft of the state master plan for health services which offers planning guidelines to local agencies.

SACRAMENTO ROUNDUP

Bill Off On Ski Lift Operations

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—A legislative committee, at the author's request, rejected a bill that would make it illegal for a ski lift operator not to make cash refunds or provide a skier at least two rides an hour.

"I don't want this law, really," Assemblyman Carlos Bee, D-Hayward, told the Assembly Commerce and Public Utilities Committee. "I'm willing to sit down and negotiate with the (ski operator) industry."

The committee, at a hearing during which the wife of Assemblyman Kent Stacey, D-Bakersfield, testified, agreed to take no further action on the bill.

Bee, a nonskier, said he had received some "really amazing" complaints from skiers who charged they were gouged by high prices at ski resorts.

"This is why I put this bill in, so they would shape up," Bee told the committee.

The measure would require a lift operator to guarantee that a skier would get at least two rides an hour during the period of his ticket and any unused ticket would be "fully refundable in cash by mail." Violation would be a misdemeanor, an offense punishable by a fine or jail sentence.

But Assemblywoman March K. Fong, D-Oakland, who termed herself "sort of a skier," said the bill would be impossible to enforce and noted it "could take me more than an hour to ski back down."

Mrs. Carolyn Stacey, a skier whose husband is a committee member, was the only witness and answered a series of leading questions asked by her spouse about lift prices in other states.

Bee told the committee he had received some correspondence from lift operators indicating they would attempt to "police" themselves. The measure was shelved.

CREDIT PLAN

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The Assembly Commerce and Public Utilities Committee Thursday approved a bill requiring merchants to make cash refunds instead of issuing credit slips.

The proposal by Assemblyman Robert C. Cline, R-Canoga Park, went to the full Assembly. He said the only opposition to his bill came from the television sales industry.

WATER PANEL

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A bill setting up a State Water Project commission which would evaluate environmental impact was introduced Thursday by Assemblyman John Vasconcellos, D-San Jose.

Vasconcellos said the project construction was now "irreversible," but he added further study was needed "to prevent adverse effect on the natural resources of our state."

COURT PLAN

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The speed-up of court proceedings is the aim of four bills proposed by Sen. Alfred H. Song, D-Monterey Park.

One proposal would eliminate jury trials altogether in civil cases while two others would abolish such trials in automobile accident and eminent domain condemnations cases.

A fourth would reduce the number of jurors in both civil and criminal cases from 12 to six.

CASINOS

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) —A legislative committee has sidetracked a bill for a study of the possibility of allowing gambling casinos in California.

The Senate Governmental Organization Committee Thursday shelved indefinitely the measure by Sen. Alfred Song, who said the study would be directed at expanding gambling as a source of extra state revenue.

Song said he would seek a favorable vote later "if I can round up the votes."

The $25,000 measure would establish a special commission of legislators and appointees of the governor to conduct the study. It would make recommendations to the governor and legislature next year.

SEX CLARITY

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) —A bill to prevent homosexuals from obtaining marriage licenses through subterfuge was introduced Thursday in the state Legislature.

"This bill is necessary because there have been occasions when county clerks have been unable to determine, by mere visual observation, the sex of a marriage license applicant," said sponsoring assemblyman Alister McAlister.

McAlister, a San Jose Democrat, said all the state's marriage, property and inheritance laws are based on the premise a valid marriage can exist only between persons of opposite sexes.

Russia Plans To Double Production Of Autos

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviet Union will produce almost 1.3 million passenger automobiles annually by 1975, the minister for automobile production said today.

Alexander M. Tarasov told a news conference for foreign journalists the Soviet Union will more than double passenger car production during the 1971-1975 economic plan.

Currently, he said, the number of passenger cars and trucks produced annually are "about equal."

Official production figures for 1970 said 916,000 vehicles were built but Tarasov gave no breakdown for cars, trucks and buses.

Tarasov said vehicle production this year would top one million for the first time in Soviet history.

He said Soviet factories by 1975 would be turning out 1.3 million passenger cars and 700,000 trucks every year.

Tarasov said he thought there would be price reductions as passenger car volume increased but offered no figures.

Self-Immolation To Protest War In Indochina

GENOA, Italy (UPI)—An 18-year-old barkeeper burned himself to death in a deserted Genoa square early today in protest against the war in Indochina.

Police said a note on the body of Edmondo Unterhausen read: "I am doing this in protest against the spreading of the war in Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia and to draw the attention of men on the need for world peace."

Officials said Unterhausen, who worked in a bar in daytime and attended a night school of electronics, apparently walked alone through a rain-swept square to an archway of a war memorial, poured gasoline on himself and lighted it from a perennial flame honoring Italy's war dead.

Barr Cites Medical, Not Medi-Cal Costs

Supervisor Louis H. Baar complained about rising welfare, medical and health costs in a talk before the Novato Republican Women Wednesday.

Consolidation Of Fairs Hit

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The Little Hoover Commission has been told by its subcommittee investigating the 76 subsidized local fairs that "large scale" consolidation of the fairs is not a good idea.

But the panel did recommend placing financial checks on the fairs and redistributing prize money to promote youth activities at the expense of those older people.

The Commission on California State Government and Economy heard a preliminary report Wednesday on its review of the fairs.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Son Used As Guinea Pig In First Smallpox Vaccination In 1721

There is a possibility that the first smallpox vaccinations were given in this country 75 years before Dr. Edward Jenner conducted his celebrated experiments with cowpox. Our early colonists died like flies every time a smallpox epidemic occurred. Something had to be done and, according to Dr. Kenneth B. Brilhart, the Rev. Cotton Mather had the right idea. Mather was unable to convince his Boston physician friends so he took his plan to nearby Brookline, where he discussed the matter with Zabdiel Boyleston. Boyleston, the son of a physician, was educated at Oxford but was not an M. D. Mather relayed the suggestion that a drop of pus from the pox of an infected person be rubbed into a few scratches on the arm of a susceptible person.

THOSE WHO believed in the experiment hoped the innoculation would produce a mild case of smallpox that would protect the recipient for life. Boyleston had had smallpox and was immune, so he selected his 13-year-old son for a guinea pig. (This took place in 1721; Jenner did his first vaccination in 1798.) Even though an epidemic was brewing, Boyleston's son did not die of smallpox.

Of the 247 persons innoculated by Boyleston in the next few months, only six died. Wher their deaths became common knowledge there was a clamorous and righteous opposition to the procedure. Boyleston's only defense was to point out that of 5,759 unvaccinated cases of smallpox, 844 died.

ACCORDING TO Dr. Brilhart, the experiment could not be conducted today even though it would mean the saving of many lives. Congressmen and the FDA would scream murder if the lives of six people were sacrificed. We wonder how many lives would have been saved had Boyleston's vaccine been used in the succeeding 75 years.

(Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the Independent-Journal.)

INTRAVENOUS PYELOGRAM

A reader writes: What is an IVP X-ray and why is it done?

REPLY

IVP stands for intravenous pyelogram. In this X-ray procedure, a radiopaque dye is injected into a vein. Shortly thereafter the substance is excreted via the kidneys. X-rays are taken at the precise time that the dye is in the pelvis of the kidneys, the ureter, and bladder. An IVP is ordered when the physician suspects kidney stones, tumors, obstructions and other abnormalties of the renal tract.

UNTYING THE TUBES

P.W. writes: When a woman has her tubes tied or clipped, can she have them untied so she can have more children?

REPLY

This depends on the way in which the original operation was performed. In some instances, is is possible to reconnect the tubes, but the results usually are not satisfactory.

CONCEPTION AT 42

R. T. writes: What are the chances of giving birth to a normal child if the woman is 42 when she conceives?

REPLY

The chances are not quite as good as at age 22, but the increased hazard is too insignificant to deter a woman from motherhood at this age.

LIPS ARE BLUISH

C.S. writes: What causes bluish lips in an older person?

REPLY

An oxygen deficiency that usually is associated with a lung or cardiac disturbance. Emphysema is one of the most common causes of bluish lips.

Midwest Hit By Storms

By United Press International

A lively late-winter storm threw snow and powerful winds around the Midwest today after raking the Plains.

From Nebraska to Michigan, snow or snow flurries fell. From the Ohio Valley to northwest Florida, rain was spreading eastward.

Travelers and heavy snow warnings were up in parts of Wisconsin—Madison had 14 inches—upper and lower Michigan and Pennsylvania.

Winds gusted to 70 miles an hour and high wind warnings were up in Missouri and Iowa. Storm warnings were out for Lake Michigan and the other Great Lakes had gale warnings.

In Indiana, what may have been two small tornadoes damaged four homes, two at Lafayette and two at Cowan, about 100 miles east, early today. There were no reported injuries. Heavy wind damaged a home at Swayzee, and strong winds and hail were reported before dawn at Knightstown and Shelbyville.

Four to six inches of snow were on the ground in many areas of Michigan before dawn, creating hazardous driving conditions. Saginaw got four inches. Schools in scattered areas closed their doors.

Madison, Wis., got 14 inches of snow from the present storm and Milwaukee had eight inches. Much of Wisconsin was blanketed by one to four inches of snow.

"Spring will come eventually," the weatherman said of the upper midwestern storm, "but not for the next four days or so."

South of the snow, rain spread: 1.27 inches at Montgomery, Ala., and 1.01 inches at Mobile, Ala., and Pensacola, Fla. Fort Walton Beach, Fla., police said either a small tornado or a squall line caused damage early today. Cressview, Fla., reported an apparent twister caused damage to one home and some power lines.

Behind the storm's progress, digging out from under was the order of the day. Snow and winds of 100 miles per hour had stranded motorists and overturned three trailer homes at Hastings, Neb.

Reinecke Proposes Student Poll On Balloting At 18

A statewide poll of high school students to find out if they want to vote at 18 — and accept responsibilities that may go with the vote — was proposed yesterday by Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke.

The age of majority should be lowered from 21 to 18 if the vote is given 18-year-olds, he said, adding he doubted students would accept both.

Reinecke made his proposal in an appearance after school in the San Rafael High School auditorium. About 50 students and adults were scattered about the large room.

The lieutenant governor, a declared candidate for governor in 1974, briefly described his duties, then spent most of his 45 minutes before the students answering their questions.

He conceded that "there's no money" for such a statewide poll, but suggested that the state Board of Education consider finding a way of taking the poll. He also conceded that the issue probably will be on the June ballot next year, regardless of whether his proposed poll were taken.

But he insisted that "we ought to talk to the young people and find out if they really want it."

Questioned about the inconsistency between laws on use of alcohol and marijuana, Reinecke firmly supported the existing laws against marijuana. He added, however, that it was "an indefensible position" and that alcohol and cigarettes "probably account for more trouble than marijuana."

He said it was "a justifiable double standard that you people are justifiably upset about."

Reinecke said the laws against marijuana should stand until more was known about its effects. He noted that "in every case that's ever been interrogated," drug addicts started with marijuana.

LT. GOV. ED REINECKE

The students also questioned Reinecke persistently about the war in Southeast Asia and about Gov. Ronald Reagan's proposed welfare cuts.

"I'm just as concerned about the war as you are," he assured his listeners. He told them that "President Nixon is doing an excellent job" of ending the war.

Welfare cuts, he said, were necessary because certain categories had been rising 25 per cent a year since 1964. "It's only a matter of time before every state in the union goes broke" paying for welfare unless the system is overhauled, he said.

Asked by one student "when was the last time Reagan had a cut in his salary?" Reinecke said that voluntary salary cuts would be "tokenism" and do nothing to solve the state's massive revenue problem.

He explained that the 1970 Legislature hiked the governor's annual salary from $44,100 to $49,100 "because they found there were 157 persons in the state government who were getting higher salaries than the governor."

Reinecke declared that the Reagan administration's "first priority still is education." Asked what its second priority was, Reinecke answered, "I don't know."

In response to another question, he said he opposed pending legislation making it illegal for Californians to be drafted to fight undeclared wars. He said the legislation was "moot" because federal laws preempted state legislation on such matters.

First Expansion Move For Cotati

The Cotati City Council last night approved annexation of 58 acres and prezoned the land for the city's first major residential development.

The Forhim Corp. received prezoning for the land on East Cotati Avenue to include 200 single-family homes as well as two-family units, garden apartments and restricted commercial. The council heard the density would average 4.5 units per acre.

The developers said that park land would be donated and some recreation provided including a swimming pool and tennis courts. They said recreation and open space had been planned as part of landscaping of the main drainage ditch.

No protest was received, but Nore Thiesfeld, Sonoma State College planner, urged the council to delay action until the completion of the general plan this summer.

The Cotati City Council also:

SERVICE STATION — Denied the application of Texaco Petroleum Products for a service station at Gravenstein Highwayand Highway 101. The council said two stations already exist and a third would violate the service station ordinance. Councilman Herbert Winter voted in favor of the station, saying more gas tax funds are needed.

APARTMENTS — Approved the rezoning request of Earl R. Anderson to permit garden apartments on Page Street.

Time Spent On Weapons Criticized

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The General Accounting Office (GAO) said today the Pentagon had spent 30 to 33 per cent more in time and money than it originally had estimated on about 50 new weapons systems.

The GAO, a congressional agency, said the Pentagon might have deliberately underestimated the costs.

In reference to 61 weapons systems, the GAO said cost overruns already had reached $33.4 billion.

"Cost growth may result from such things as unanticipated development difficulties, faulty planning, poor management, bad estimating or deliberate underestimating," the GAO said.

GAO said its study of about 50 weapons systems revealed an average cost overrun of about 30 per cent and average schedule slippage of 33 per cent.

The GAO reported its findings in an 84-page study entitled "Acquisition of Major Weapon Systems."

The GAO said the Pentagon ought to make every effort to determine what weapons systems it needs and what the priority of each should be.

The GAO cited the short range attack missile (SRAM) and the C5A aircraft as examples of "inadequate application" of these two criteria.

The GAO said the feasibility of developing a motor for SRAM was not adequately considered before full-scale development began. Completion of the project was delayed several years and costs went up.

In the case of the C5A, the GAO said the technical difficulties may not have been adequately recognized at high levels in the Pentagon. The GAO said the development schedule was "unrealistic" and "at the outset it was overly optimistic with no allowance for setbacks in the development program."

Phone Company Asked To Refund $22,985 Bill

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. (UPI)—A town councilman thinks his telephone service has been so rotten during the past 30 years that he deserves a refund—$22,985 to be exact.

John Bobick, a Woodside councilman who operates a plumbing firm, filed a $118,000 damage suit Thursday against Pacific Telephone Co.

Bobick said he has been unable to place outgoing calls from his home or office despite repeated attempts by telephone crews to fix the situation. He said the problem was the latest in 30 years of bad service.

He asked for the return of $22,985 he has paid for phone service since 1940, $45,000 for loss of business, $50,000 for general damages, and to be excused from paying his current $1,192 bill.

Cal Delays On Roles Of Students

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The University of California's regents have decided to delay a decision on how much decision-making power to give students.

The decision to take more time came Thursday when President Charles J. Hitch told a regents committee, "this is an area in which we cannot afford to make mistakes."

"This is a very important matter, a very complex matter and one which raises issues very difficult to resolve," he declared.

Before the regents was a change in the regulation which permits only faculty members to vote on departmental decisions. The change would have given Hitch power to permit student voting.

Hitch asked for a delay "until you hear from me what I would do if this standing order was adopted." As yet he is not sure, he said.

Student body president, urging speedy action, said students are anxious to work within the system, rather then to push their causes outside it.

Departmental decisions are only regulations but usually are upheld by administrators.

Departments on some campuses have included students in decision making but the university's general counsel ruled that was illegal under existing rules.

Keith Bouvier, UCLA graduate student body president, declared regents are being asked to formalize a "process already ongoing."

Decisions students want a voice in concern which courses are taught and which teachers are hired.

The regents also were told by the university it was stopping the administration of Project Clean Air, a research effort established last year by the legislature.

University officials said the school got out because the California Air Resources Board insisted on deciding which projects should be carried out.

The project office in Berkeley is being closed but air pollution research will continue at the Riverside campus.

Kindergarten Registration Set In Petaluma

Kindergarten registration for all Petaluma schools will be held Wednesday from 9 a.m. to noon.

Parents of prospective kindergarten children and first grade students who have not previously enrolled in kindergarten will be required to register.

Registration may be made at the school closest to home. Children must have been born on or before Dec. 2, 1966, to enter kindergarten and the same date in 1965 for first grade.

Parents must produce a birth certificate and evidence of immunity to measles and of at least one polio innoculation. Children need not be present to be registered.

Spring Equinox To Be Feted

The coming of the spring equinox will be celebrated Sunday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Sonoma State College lake.

The celebration, sponsored by the Kundalini Yoga Club of the college, will feature a speech by Yogi Bhajan and musical presentations by the Sufi Choir and Dancers.

Bhajan returned this week from a three-month tour of India with 85 American students. The celebration also will include chanting, singing, dancing and a picnic.

DINING OUT AND INNS

By HARRY CRAFT

Pair Of 'Happenings' On Tap At London Arms English Pub

Two separate parties will be held during the last few days of this month by Don and Betty Johnson at London Arms on the San Anselmo Miracle Mile.

It was something of a blow to the Johnsons to lose part of the space on Red Hill Avenue that they have acquired during their four years of operation. But instead of moving out they have been remodeling and intend to make the most of it. The westernmost part of London Arms has been in a different building which was recently sold. They had no firm lease here and the new owner wants them out.

First big event will be on Sunday, March 28, when they hold a "Grand Closing Party." Appropriately, pipers will come in to play funeral music. This will be held in the premises being vacated — at 85 Red Hill Avenue.

Then on Wednesday, March 31, there will be a "Grand Opening Party" in the building at 73 - 75 Red Hill which has been undergoing remodeling for the past month at considerable expense.

There won't be as many tables as before — only about 13 or 14 — but the Johnsons have built up a host of loyal supporters over their four years here and they will make out.

I am sure I am right in saying that this has been the most successful English pub fish and chips operation in the county. It has attracted visitors from all over.

THERE'S HEAVY REMODELING going on at 526 Third Street, San Rafael, across from the United Market, and in another 30 days or so you can expect this to blossom out as a sort of super pizza parlor.

The Marin Pizza Pub, as it will be known, is a project of Constantine J. Santrizos of San Francisco and John B. Wallace of San Rafael.

It will have music as many pizza parlors do — but what music!

A pipe organ, no less.

A NEW LITTLE RESTAURANT on the Italian and spaghetti side that has opened recently at an established location in the Ignacio area is the Country Kitchen at 5611 Redwood Highway.

This is where North Beach North used to be, and before that Bellucci's Spaghetti House. It has been taken over by Maureen Kovacs, who used to operate Rick's Village Inn in Corte Madera.

It's comfortable and neat and the only disadvantage for new comers is its relation to highway access roads. Driving north from San Rafael, take the first highway exit after going over the hill past Lucas Valley Road. If you miss it or are driving south, turn at the Igacio Boulevard exit and then south on the west side of the highway. It's part of the Skylark Motel complex.

The Country Kitchen is open daily except Tuesdays for lunches and dinners from about 11:30 a.m. to 9 or 9:30 p.m.

Dinner combinations feature southern fried chicken, sauteed chicken livers, veal cutlets, sirloin steaks, ground round, filet of sole, fried scallops, fried oysters and a seafood combination plate. Prices are from $2.25 to $5.50. There are also a la carte spaghetti and meat sauce or meat balls dishes, or regatoni and ravioli, same style; chicken and spaghetti, baked lasagne and veal parmigiana, $1.25 to $2.75.

Salads, louies and home made pies are added menu attractions.

It's neat and clean; tables are hatch covers and there are travel posters on the walls. Mrs. Kovacs is applying for a wine and beer license.

IN MENDOCINO COUNTY, Gregory Seubert has the Noyo River Inn open again on Sundays, so Marinities making the trip there on weekends will have a chance to visit. Great numbers of them have been making this a port of call.

Closing day for the inn is now on Monday.

DICK AND GLADYS HOEFLEIN have now assumed ownership and the operation of Cal's Steakhouse in San Rafael, which they purchased earlier this year from Cal and Madelyn White. The permanent license has just come through.

This is Dick's first fling at the restaurant business — he's been 20 years on the San Francisco Bay waterfront. But he and his wife have been around Cal's for several years — with good reason. If you don't know them, you know their son Howard — he's the 13-year-old drummer with the Marin Banjo Band which plays there Wednesday nights.

The restaurant will continue just as the Whites operated it and under the same name.

Cal and Madelyn have taken off for Paso Robles.

FURTHER WORD from Sommer-Ryan Enterprises, which now has the former Hil Probert property in Larkspur and intends to convert it into a Victorian-type restaurant and store complex, is that remodeling and enlarging may start in May and the place may be open by the middle of summer. Name for this will be Lark Creek Inn.

Ralph (Skip) Sommer plans on operating the restaurant. Since he appears to be the only experienced restaurant man in the group that owns it, this is logical. He has a degree in restaurant management and used to have Skipper's restaurant in downtown Sausalito before it became Alioto's Arbordale and later the Sausalito Inn restaurant.

His associate in Sommer-Ryan Enterprises is Alan Ryan of Los Gatos, sales manager for International Paper Co. They are the general partners. There are several other limited partners in the venture: James Osborn of Kentfield, general sales manager of American Broadcasting; Mill Valley dentist Richard Danford; Robert Jewell, also of Mill Valley, vice president of Western Operations, Inc.; and Ernest Simard of San Francisco, business manager of American Conservatory Theater. This is quite a back-up for the project

YOU'VE PROBABLY NOTICED that more diners-out are making sure there's a bottle of wine on the table these days. Americans stepped up their wine drinking last year, consuming a record 149 million gallons.

Champagnes and sparkling wines showed the biggest increase, table wines were also up, but dessert wines (sherries, muscatel, port, etc.) dropped behind.

About 88 out of every 100 bottles were produced in this country, with most of this coming from California.

Four Draft Violators Win Release

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Two Fairfax men ordered to prison for draft violations won a temporary reprieve yesterday from U.S. Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas.

Douglas ordered Robert E. Lopez, 23, and Richard Carl Smith, 24, freed without bail while their cases are appealed.

Lopez and Smith, along with two other Bay Area men, were sentenced to federal prison by a new federal district court judge on Feb. 24. Judge Samuel Conti had refused their release on bail or on their own recognizance during an appeal period.

The Ninth Circuit Court of Appeal later ordered the cases expedited and put them on the calendar for the week of April 12 but made no mention of bail.

Attorneys for the men took the bail question to Douglas, who ordered Smith and Lopez and a third man released without bail and the fourth freed on $2,500 bail.

The men, who had claimed moral objections to the war, were convicted of refusing induction.

Judge Conti, who has embarked on a new get-tough policy with such cases, termed the cases "very serious crimes."

6 Guilty Pleas To Bomb Counts In New York City

NEW YORK (UPI)—Six persons described by police as members of the Weathermen have pleaded guilty to charges of conspiring to burn six New York City buildings and will be sentenced May 7.

The defendants, whose lawyers deny that they are members of the revolutionary Weathermen, entered their pleas Thursday, one day before they were to go on trial. State Supreme Court Justice Harold Birns allowed them to remain free on bail.

The six were arrested Dec. 4. Police said they were trying to put fire bombs at the office building housing President Nixon's former law firm and five other Manhattan buildings.

The defendants were Richard R. Palmer, 40; Claudia Conine, 22; Sharon Krebs, 33; Joyce Placha, 26; Christopher Trenkle, 19, and Martin Lewis, 25, all of New York.

Hitch Asks Rules On Regent Deals With University

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—University of California President Charles J. Hitch said Thursday that a clear policy should be established to govern financial transactions between the university and individual regents.

Hitch made his remarks to a Regents' financial committee during a meeting in San Francisco in response to a request by the State Assembly's Committee on Education which has been investigating transactions between the university and several regents.

A pledge to re-examine the university's policy of permitting time deposits in banks outside of California was also promised by Hitch.

"The committee should be aware however, that the university is not, and should not be, prohibited from making investments in financial institutions outside California whenever such investments will enable the university to earn a greater return," Hitch said.

Seeds Prohibited

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Agriculture Department has refused to allow 980,000 pounds of blight resistant seed corn from South Africa into the country because it said the corn might contain a mildew disease which could afflict U.S. crops.

Alioto Makes Pitch For GOP Convention Site

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Mayor Joseph Alioto reports that San Francisco has offered $500,000 and the "nation's best police force" in its bid to become the site of the 1972 national political conventions.

"We can't match the $800,000 offered by other cities, but we can offer the best security," he told reporters Thursday.

Thomas J. Mellon, the city's chief administrative officer, said he had told Republicans the city could put up $200,000 in hotel tax funds and hoped private business would provide the rest.

"We told them that anyone can dissent here, short of being violent," Alioto said. "We believe in allowing dissent and demonstrations as long as persons and property are not hurt."

Recycled Paper Market Falling

While the recycling movement in Marin and throughout the Bay Area is mushrooming, the demand for reusable newsprint is "saturated".

"We have been discouraging people from collecting any more until there is some kind of market for them," George A. Graham, manager of technical services for Consolidated Fibers of Oakland, said.

Other major buyers of used newspapers agreed with Graham that the market is saturated because of the influx from the ecology movement in the midst of a slack economy.

Representatives of Independent Paper Stock and Fibreboard Corporation, both of San Francisco, said they have been forced at times to stop buying newsprint altogether because the mills they sell have to cut production.

Nevertheless, Marin Ecology groups, which deliver newspapers at the buyers' plants, have continued to find markets for newsprint, according to Paul Jacobs of the Marin Ecology Center.

V. Robert Vans of the Glass Container Manufacturers Institute said only 3 to 4 per cent of the glass containers sold in the Bay Area are reclaimed. The industry, which will pay up to $20 a ton for used glass, could recycle up to 30 per cent, he said.

There is even more room for expansion in recycling tin, according to Eileen Araujo of M. and T. Chemical Company of South San Francisco. She said M and T alone can recycle up to 800 million tons a year, but now receives only 14,000 to 18,000 cans a week from each ecology group. That quantity of tin cans can be processed in two to three minutes, she said.

Tin cans are worth $20 a ton, but aluminum cans are worth up to $200 a ton. Local beer distributors are paying 10 cents a pound for them.

Used newsprint, worth only $2 to $6 a ton, is the only substance widely collected for recycling that appears to have surpassed the demand.

Graham, who lives in San Rafael, said his company is accepting very few old newspapers because the mills that use them for boxboard, molded pulp, gypsum board and newsprint don't need the quantity now available.

He said that nationwide in 1969 11.4 million tons of paper were reclaimed and reused. This year, he predicted, the figure will drop to about 10 million to be reused by mills.

"Their business has been depressed with our slowdown in the economy and as a consequence they just are not using the normal amount — and, in addition to that, we have everybody and his brother trying to collect newsprint," Graham said.

To handle the increasing volume of newspapers caused by a growing public awareness of recycling the industry is doing research into new uses for waste paper, he said.

Only Drunk Charge Filed

Only a misdemeanor charge of being drunk in public has been filed in Marin Municipal Court against Anthony Mendoza, 19, of Hayward.

Mendoza was booked Saturday at Marin County Jail on suspicion of assault and battery and possession of marijuana after he allegedly bothered two women near Pepperland in San Rafael.

He is to plead to the drunk charge March 31.

Innocent Plea To Bad Checks

Thomas Wade Ayers, 19, of San Rafael, has pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court to five counts of passing bad checks.

Preliminary hearing was set for Tuesday.

Ayers was arrested Monday in San Francisco on a Marin County warrant linking him to checks stolen from a Belvedere firm Feb. 27.

Bagley Puts Dairy Bill In Hopper

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — A bill requiring certain dairy products to be stamped with a date after which they could not be sold was introduced yesterday by Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael.

The date would have to appear "plainly and in a conspicuous place" on any container of milk or cream. Violation of the requirement would be a misdemeanor.

Bagley said that milk processors could not put an unrealislic expiration date on their products "because the consumer will not buy his product the next time if it doesn't last that long. If the customers complain, the retailer won't trust the processor either.

"Hence the processor is not only forced to keep his pull date honest, he also has an incentive to develop methods to increase the active life of his product to obtain a competitive advantage over other processors," Bagley said.

The bill also would give consumers full information about the relative freshness of the dairy products, he said.

Tradition to Continue At West Point

Richard P. Tetu, a 17-year-old Novato High School senior, following the path of two older brothers, has received a presidential appointment to the U.S. Military Academy at West Point.

Tetu is the third son of retired Col. and Mrs. Robert G. Tetu of 1095 Bel Marin Keys Boulevard, Bel Marin Keys, to attend the academy.

Richard, youngest of the brothers, played varsity basketball, is secretary of the student body for the spring semester and a member of the Novato recreation lacrosse team. He will report to the academy July 1.

One brother, William J., 23, will graduate from the academy in June, and another brother, Robert G. Jr., 28, was graduated in 1964 and presently is a captain in Vietnam.

More Scholarships, Now He's A Citizen

Paul Joseph Oesterman, a 17-year-old senior at San Rafael High School, is eligible for more scholarships now that he has become a U.S. citizen.

Paul, among 16 Marin residents naturalized in the U.S. District Court in San Francisco last month, has been a resident of California since 1958.

He got around to applying for citizenship this year "mainly for scholarships," he said, explaining that it is usually required.

Paul, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard J. Oesterman of 23 Sienna Way, also became the last member of his family to become a U.S. citizen. His father was naturalized in 1962, his mother last year, and his 5-year-old sister, Jan, is a citizen by birth.

A former I-J newspaperboy, Paul is majoring in science at San Rafael High School with a view toward studying veterinary medicine at the University of California at Davis.

He was president of the Medical Careers Club last semester and is a member of the Marin County Branch, Future Doctors. He works three hours a day after school at Marin General Hospital filing medical records.

A native of London, Paul moved to San Francisco a year after his father, on his way to Australia, stopped over in that city and decided to settle there. Shortly afterward the family moved to Marin.

Other Marin residents naturalized last week were:

SAUSALITO — Raphael de Benito, 26 Crescent Avenue.

Car Theft, Burglary Pleas Made

Walter Vincent Burke, 31, of 349 Bolinas Road, Fairfax, has pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court to charges of burglary and car theft.

A preliminary hearing on the car theft charge has been set for Tuesday, and a hearing on the burglary charge for Thursday.

The case of Lawrence Roe Loudon, 19, of 120 Morning Sun Avenue, Mill Valley, charged along with Burke of burglary, was transferred to juvenile court.

The pair was arrested Monday after sheriff's deputies received a report of a man retrieving a sleeping bag from shrubbery on California Avenue in Almonte.

Deputies stopped Burke and Loudon's car and found the sleeping bag, which contained articles stolen from the residence of John P. Kelly of 241 California Avenue.

Burke also is charged with the theft of a San Rafael woman's car Feb. 4.

When you consider the Hornet's price, how it stacks up against its competition, and the way it's built, it may be the best buy in the history of Detroit.

With a suggested list price of $2174,* the Hornet is the lowest priced compact made in America.

But this alone doesn't make it the best buy in America. You also have to consider performance.

Performance.

In the most recent Union Oil Performance Trials (based on acceleration, gas mileage and braking for last year's models), the Hornet was rated first in its class. Ahead of Maverick, Nova, Duster, and Dart.

Endurance.

That's impressive. But perhaps even more impressive is what a man named Lou Halasz did with a Hornet.

He drove it 39,659 miles from Cleveland, Ohio to St. John, Newfoundland to Ushuaia, Argentina to Fairbanks, Alaska. And back to Cleveland.

He drove over some bumpy unpaved roads, through heat, through snow and sleet and rain and gloom of night. In the process, he broke an endurance record claimed by another car company.

This sturdiness isn't too surprising when you consider what a Hornet goes through before it goes to you.

Deep-dip rustproofing.

Each Hornet is submerged up to the roof line in a rust-inhibiting paint primer. American Motors was the first manufacturer to do this.

Engine test.

The hot test.

A representative number of engines are attached to a dynamometer and run full throttle for two to three hundred hours or approximately 100,000 miles. If a component has a weakness, it will show up and be corrected.

Quality control.

At the end of the manufacturing process, each Hornet is accepted or rejected. The few that don't make it are fixed.

These are just some of the tests and trials a Hornet goes through. But by now the point should be clear.

American Motors

*Manufacturer's suggested retail price for Hornet 2 Dr. sedan, federal taxes included. State, local taxes, if any, destination charges excluded. Destination charges for California $137 extra.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Income Potential In Bancorporation

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. Can you give me any information on Western Bancorporation? I have 1,100 shares. — M.L.

A. Western Bancorporation is the largest multi-bank holding company in the country, owning majority interests in 23 banks. Operating 654 offices in 11 western states, this holding company's banks range in size from about $9.2 million to $4.1 billion in deposits.

Growth over the past four years has been consistent. For 1970, revenues on loans and federal funds advanced 8.5 per cent over 1969's levels, while total income rose 12 per cent. Net income, before an extraordinary charge of 84 cents a share from the losses of a Swiss subsidiary, United California Bank in Basel, was $3.22 per share versus $2.96 a year earlier. The unfortunate involvement of its Swiss subsidiary in unauthorized commodity trading was responsible for the extraordinary charge. However, stock's market action appears to have discounted this write-off and better trading levels should be seen.

I suggest you lighten your position on any upturn. Remaining shares may be held for gradual growth and modest 3.5 per cent yield.

Q. I would appreciate your opinion of a risk stock, Butler Aviation, particularly as to whether its market value is likely to advance to 25-30 in the foreseeable future. Would it be wiser to sell and take a loss? — E.L.

A. Both sales and earnings progress at Butler Aviation has been uninspiring over the past several years, with 1970 showing no improvement. For the nine months ended September 30, sales and operating revenues increased 14 per cent from those of 1969, restated to exclude operations discontinued in 1969 and early 1970. After a tax credit of $439,209, versus taxes at 52.5%, there was a loss of $1.6 million, or $1.80 a share, in contrast with net income of $455,407, or 51 cents, in 1969.

Shell Oil Co. recently agreed to purchase up to six of Butler's 15 aviation service facilities for more than $5 million, which should aid 1971 results. Sale is justified on any upswing.

Perini Corp. Has $1.9 Million Loss

BOSTON — (BW) — Perini Corp., international real estate development and construction firm, announced a net loss of $1,964,349 in 1970 compared with net earnings of $2,323,836 in 1969.

Perini Corp. has food franchising, real estate and land development interests in California, including Chambers Lodge and 700 acres at Lake Tahoe.

INCOME TAX FACTS

By PETER J. WIKEL

IRS Rules Permit Deductions Of Few Taxes On Schedule A

The rules permit the deduction of very few taxes on Schedule A.

Personal property taxes — this includes the "in lieu" portion of auto license fees. That is, the amount paid for 1970 in excess of the registration fee of $11 ($12 for a station wagon).

Real Estate Taxes.

State Gasoline Tax — California 7 cents per gallon. There is a chart for the gasoline tax deduction on page 8 of the instruction booklet you received with your tax return form. Use this chart to compute your gas tax deduction. If you have more than one car or a very large deduction, be sure to explain this fact on your return.

California State Disability Insurance — The amount your employer actually deducted from your wages, but not more than $74 for 1970, provided it was paid into the State Fund and not to a private insurance company.

State Income Tas.

State and Local Sales Tax — There is a guide in the instruction booklet you received with your tax return forms, page 22. Find your income bracket and the number of members of your family on this chart and there is the amount of the sales tax deduction. If your income is over $19,999, take the highest figure from the table and add to that 2 per cent of that figure for every $1,000 or fraction of income over $19,999 up to $49,999, plus 1 per cent of the sales tax figure for every $1,000 or fraction over $49,999 up to $99,999. If your income is $100,000 or more, deduct 210 per cent of the table amount or your actual sales taxes paid.

The income figure you use on the chart may be different than the one used on your tax return as you would take the figure on linr 18 and add to that the other untaxed income available to you such as Social Security, sick pay, untaxed portion of long term capital gains, if they were spent, etc., etc.

If you made a major purchase, such as an automobile, then you would also deduct the sales tax on the automobile as well as the amount on the chart.

If you made a number of major purchases last year, such as an automobile and a house full of furniture, etc., then it may pay you to actually compute your sales tax deduction.

If you claim anything other than the amount shown on the chart plus the above percentages for income over $19,999, be sure to attach a full explanation to your tax return and keep your evidence as you may be called upon to substantiate your deduction.

Slight Drop In Prices On Exchange

NEW YORK (UPI)—The stock market was slightly lower in fairly active trading late Friday.

With about an hour to go, Standard & Poor's 500 Stock Index showed a loss of 0.19 at 101.00. Declines topped advances by 125 issues.

Analysts said the market was consolidating after the bit rise which carried the Dow Jones Industrial Average through 900 early in the week.

Economic news was mixed and appeared to have little impact on the market.

Aerospace stocks were among the day's most heavily traded issues, largely reflecting the battle shaping up on Capitol Hill over the status of the supersonic transport plane.

McDonnell Douglas was in demand after Delta Air Line's order for 10 of the firm's DC10 Airbuses, apparently because delivery of Lockheed L-1011s will be delayed.

Electronics pointed in both directions. Steels, motors and chemicals generally traded narrowly. So did most oils.

BCDC Approves Showboat Mooring

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Bay Conservation and Development Commission voted approval Thursday for Anza Pacific Corp. to moor a 140-foot "showboat" restaurant near Coyote Point.

The permit is subject to review since it is not legally clear who owns the land under the water where the boat would be tied.

4 Pct. Pay Hike For City Workers

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Mayor Joseph L. Alioto signed into law Thursday a 4 per cent pay increase for some 15,000 city employes.

"I realize that this increase doesn't match the increase in the cost of living but the taxpayers simply cannot afford more at this time," he declared.

Mineral Discovery

NEW YORK (UPI)—A new, sizable zinc-lead-silver deposit has been discovered near the town of Navan Ireland, northwest of Dublin, says the Irish-owned Tara Exploration and Development Co., Ltd.

Railway Merger Is Called Off

CLEVELAND (UPI)—The insolvency of some eastern railroads and the aura of bankruptcy dogging others prompted the Chesapeake & Ohio and the Norfolk & Western railroads to call off their merger plans Thursday, C & O President Gregory S. Devine said.

Devine said the two profitable railroads feared federal officials would "saddle" them, as a condition of merger, with some of the failing railroads.

Bank Change

SINGAPORE (UPI)—Plans have been announced to convert the Post Office Savings Bank into an autonomous statuary corporation. The change would give the bank freer freedom of action.

In 5 minutes it had better turn into a station wagon.

The tent folds up in four minutes and the roof clamps shut in 10 seconds. Which leaves you 50 seconds to tidy up inside. Before the tide comes in outside.

Time enough to open all the curtains. Put the milk in the icebox. Rinse your coffee cup in the sink. Make the dining room table disappear. Turn the full-length double bed into a seat.

And that's it.

An air-cooled engine that presses down on the rear wheels, giving you extra traction in snow. And sand. (We got you into this mess. And we'll get you out of it.)

Gas economy. Up to 23 miles on a gallon of regular.

DRAMA REVIEW

'Cabaret' To Open Tonight

By JAMES E. WILLIAMS

With the flick of his dancing cane, the emcee will "bring up" the curtain, lighting up the word "Cabaret" to signal tonight's opening of the College of Marin's spring musical at the Fine Arts Theater.

If all runs true to form, patrons will leave approximately two-and-one-half hours later, satisfied.

Last night the cast had its final shakedown — a full dress rehearsal before an audience of Marin County high school drama students.

While there were rough spots, the cast, pit orchestra and crew had a live audience to gauge timing for laughter, set changes and dance routines.

If I know the combined talents within the drama and music departments of the college, all systems will be "go" tonight for excellence has become a trade mark.

The production chiefs — H. J. Susser, stage director, and Scott Merrick, music director —have assembled a uniformly fine cast headed by a very talented young actor, dancer and singer in Joel Blum as the emcee. He is one of the finest I've seen perform at the college in the past three seasons. He lights up the stage with his overflowing talent — a rarity on any theatrical level.

Lovely to look at, as well as talented, Janie Cummings is perfectly cast as Sally Bowles, who can't sacrifice her good times for lasting love. She stopped the show with a haunting rendition of "Cabaret."

David Brown as Clifford Bradshaw, Sally's American love, is a far better actor than singer. All he has to do is sing a little softer and the pitch should be there.

Like Brown, the remainder of the principals were far better dramatically than vocally. It's hard, however, to find a Blum for every role. But Denise Orr as Fraulein Schneider, and Cricket Waldeck as Fraulein Kost were enjoyable anyway. That goes, too, for J. W. Harper as Herr Schultz, the Jewish fruit stand owner, and Gregory Norgaard as Ernst Ludwig, the Third Reich supporter.

The musical, which was a winning Broadway effort of Joe Masterhoff, John Kander and Fred Ebb, is set in the funloving Berlin of 1929-30, just before the start of Hitler's climb to power with the philosophical outlook that "we'll live through it and Hitler can't kill a million Jews.

The production remains authentic to the period in all departments, especially in Alonso D. Gonzales's non-cluttered settings and colorful costumes.

Even all the male members of the cast have sacrificed today's long hair for neatly trimmed sideburns and short tops.

The large cast has been especially well-trained by choreographer Lou Nardi. While the dance patterns are not too difficult — with the exception of Blum's — they are very well executed.

While the score is not an overly outstanding accomplishment, most of the melodies are easy to take. Frankly, I think there are better musicals.

"Cabaret" will be presented again tomorrow and Sunday at 8 p.m. and next week at 8 p.m. Thursday through Sunday.

"CABARET" — A two-act musical with book by Joe Masterhoff; music by John Kander, and lyrics by Fred Ebb. COM production staff: H. J. One-Acts At Redwood High Tonight

Two one-act plays, a Noel Coward comedy and a drama by William Saroyan, which opened last night at Redwood High School, will be presented again today and tomorrow at 8 p.m. in the school's little theater.

The cast also includes Debbie Stanton, Dora Smekens and Mary Miller. Redwood drama teacher Joseph Wadlington is the director and Jim Treanor, the student director.

"Hello Out There," is the other play and is the story of an accused rapist's plea for justice.

The prisoner is played by Dan McClellan. Also featured are Merrily Milmoe, Greg Pedlar, Robin Buckley and Joe Dukes.

MUSIC REVIEW

Mozart's Seldom Heard 'Titus' Opens Innovative Spring Opera

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

SAN FRANCISCO — Innovation and experiment are apparently the key terms in this year's San Francisco Spring Opera Theater which opened last night with Mozart's seldom heard "Titus" sung in English. The four-series season will continue tonight with the opening performance of Verdi's "Rigoletto," also in English.

Innovations included the more intimate setting of the Curran Theater in place of the Opera House, a thrust stage that brought performers into the audience at times and the orchestra playing backstage out of sight with two closed circuit TV sets permitting performers to see the conductor.

The result was the focusing of more attention on the performers and making the orchestra more like an accompaniment than a major part of the music. Fortunately there was no obvious watching of the cameras.

For me the outstanding values of this opera were the glorious Mozart music — some of his best lyrical if not dramatic writing — and hearing some very promising new young singers.

Other aspects of the production are bound to be controversial. Not to everyone's liking will be the opera seria format, a very formalized kind of tragic opera with rigid rules that was already a decadent form when Mozart wrote it, and therefore puzzling.

In an effort to use the form creatively producer William Francisco double cast the story centered in the attempted assassination of Roman Emperor Titus in a plot originated by his discarded mistress Vitellia and carried out by her lover Sextus, who had been Titus's friend.

Tying the two casts together was the concept of having the speaking cast represent a group of young Viennese people who were putting on the play of "Titus," which was simultaneously performed by the singing cast. Lighting controlled the shift of attention from one to the other.

The double cast device also served the purpose of allowing the speaking cast to use words from a play that was superior to the opera's libretto and also to carry forward the plot while the singing cast expressed most of the emotion and feeling in music.

Most extrordinary was Robert Darlin's stage design using a portion of an 18th Century salon on the left side of the stage, where the speaking cast performed in costumes of that period, and floor-to-ceiling chrome-like sections in the right side as background for the singing cast. Not clear in motivation was the singing principals' more or less modern evening dress rather than Roman costume, unless it was to underline some modern applications of the theme.

By far the best singer was the young Metropolitan Opera mezzo Frederica Von Stade as Sextus, one of the two "pants" roles — men's parts written for women's voices. Her voice was technically sure, of lovely quality and very expressive, but her awkward stance was distracting.

In the title role William McDonald's tenor was very pleasing, though rather stolid and not agile enough in some florid passages.

Soprano Sylvia Cooper was a dynamic Vitellia whose top tones were sometimes harsh, and mezzo Gwen Jones's singing in the other "pants" role of Annius was mellifluous. Soprano Joan Benner and baritone Allan Monk sang well the less important roles of Servilia and Publius.

The orchestra was handled in true Mozart style by Gustav Meier, and the chorus representing the Roman public showed much of the good work choral director Francesco Prestia gets from the regular San Francisco Opera chorus.

The speaking cast was not much better than one would expect to see in a high school production.

"Titus" will be performed again tomorrow and March 26 at 8:30 p.m.

'Pajama Game' Will Open Tonight

The musical "Pajama Game" will be presented by Terra Linda High School students at 8 p.m. today and tomorrow in the school gymnasium.

The comedy is based on a novel, "Seven-and-a-Half-Cents" by Richard Bissell, and features such songs as "Hey There," "There Once Was a Man," and "Hernando's Hideaway."

The plot revolves around a conflict between management and union over a seven-and-a-half-cent raise.

The leading roles in the show will be taken by David Crayne as Sid Sorokin; Julie Price as Babe Williams. Karyn Nikas will play Gladys, Tom Elkjer as Vernon Hines; Donna Hayes, as Mabel, and Scott Brund will play the role of Myron Hasler.

Other in the cast are Tom Kramer, Abby Goldman, Lora Lovrien, Donna Stallone, who play union members.

Traffic, Revenue Up For San Rafael Span

Traffic on the Richmond-San Rafael Bridge totaled 6,591,421 vehicles in 1970, up 499,143 over the previous year, the Division of Bay Toll Crossings reported today.

Revenues, however, increased only $109,958 over 1969 because tolls were cut a dime to 65 cents on July 1, 1970.

Welfare: Frightening Figures Call For Action

Although unemployment figures are kept almost current, figures on welfare take a few months to be tabulated and made public. So it has just come out that last November, the number of Aid to Families with Dependent Children recipients in the U.S. increased by 282,000.

This was the biggest increase in the history of the program, topping by 40,000 the previous month's record hike of 242,000. It brings the nationwide total of recipients in this program to 9.4 million.

This means that nearly one of every 20 men, women and children in the United States are receiving AFDC funds. It also makes President Richard M. Nixon's proposed welfare budget already obsolete.

THE BUDGET was based on an estimate of 9.1 million AFDC recipients at the middle of this fiscal year — or Jan. 1. It projected an increase to 10.7 million by December.

But if the rise through the final two months of 1970 was at the same rate shown up to November, the rolls will have risen 3.4 million in last year. The previous year, they rose by two million; the year before that, by one million. Such an escalated rate of increase makes Nixon's estimate of 10.7 million AFDC recipients next December appear more than slightly ridiculous.

THERE ARE TWO possible explanations for this extremely rapid increase in AFDC cases: Either a great many families are losing their breadwinners, or more people are finding it possible to take advantage of this state-federal-county handout while still employed.

These unemployment statistics, which are kept up to date by the Bureau of Labor Statistics, do not bear out the first possible explanation. The number of unemployed last November was only about 300,000 more than a year earlier — less than 10 per cent of the increase in AFDC cases.

This would indicate the second explanation must be the more likely one. And this is born out by a series of court decisions resulting in greatly increased costs for this program in California alone. These decisions, on housing allowances, increased cost-of-living need items allowed welfare recipients, difference in method of computing earned income, elimination of waiting period, etc., were tabulated in Gov. Ronald Reagan's welfare reform report as having cost California taxpayers $112,201,000 last year. Cases still pending will cost the state's taxpayers another $732,777,900 if they all are decided in favor of the welfare "clients."

Each such decision favoring recipients naturally results in opening the door for more people to be eligible for welfare payments. And it should be noted that it opens the door, not for those at the bottom of the income ladder, but for those who previously were ineligible because of their earnings.

NO WONDER President Nixon has described the welfare system as "a consuming outrage"! Yet the President's "solution" has been principally to propose a guaranteed income floor which would add another 10 million to 15 million to the rolls.

Governor Reagan has proposed a sweeping reform program. One of its many features which has drawn heaviest fire from his political opponents is a proposal to put some 200,000 able-bodied welfare recipients to work on public projects.

Interestingly enough, Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York last week proposed the same thing in his state: putting the able-bodied to work.

WHEN REAGAN makes such a proposal, it is decried and ridiculed. When it comes from "Rocky," whose liberal credentials are in better order, it is received with the sober attention it deserves.

We suggest that California's state senators and assemblymen consider all of Governor Reagan's welfare proposals as though they had originated with the New York governor, or with a Democrat. In other words, examine them on their merits.

Certainly the people of California and the United States are not prepared to finance growth of welfare costs continuing at the prevailing rate for very long.

Save The Animals In Marin First

My congratulations to Supervisors Peter R. Arrigoni and Michael Wornum for their concern toward wild animals that are almost nonexistent in Golden Gate Park. But, they don't have to go to Golden Gate Park to look for animals in need of a haven. Last month in the I-J an article appeared stating that ground squirrels were being poisoned for no reason at all, except that they might become a hazard at Gnoss Field.

If everyone felt this way about wild animals that might become a hazard we wouldn't have any wild animals left in a couple of years from now.

My suggestion to these two spirited supervisors that offer a haven in Marin County for the underprivileged wild animals abroad is to see what can be done to save these squirrels in the county. After all, what is good for the animals in the city of San Francisco (Golden Gate Park) is good for the animals in the country (Marin County). Right!

Angela Case Recalls Famed IWW Trial

Miss Angela Davis's plea for a bigger courtroom to holler in reminds me of my salad days as a news reporter for the City News Bureau of Chicago back in 1918. Because, as I was candidly informed, all the good reporters had gone off to fight the Hun, it fell to me to participate in coverage of the wartime conspiracy case of "Big Bill" Heywood and other leading members of the now forgotten I.W.W., a militant labor group mainly dedicated to putting sand into bearings, nails into saw logs, and such.

This very interesting bunch totaled 116 under indictment, of whom I think 96 actually came to trial. Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis could barely accommodate all these defendants in his federal courtroom, yet he managed to make room for the press (there was no TV or even radio then), to provide 50 new shining cuspatoons much needed by the tobacco-chawing defendants as well as the judge himself, and for such spectators as wished to attend. There was never any complaint as to space, while the lengthy duration of the trial meant that there were several vacant seats quite often. From time to time wives of the defendants would contrive to come to Chicago and Judge Landis always allowed each husband a night off without bail. "Red" Doran once abused this by showing up obviously drunk, and by the following morning he had been beaten to a pulp by his fellows. On the whole a good show which more could and should have attended but there was never any complaint by anybody. The trial was ably conducted and all were presently found guilty of everything. Heywood jumped bail and died in Russia. Years later I met one of the 20-year-sentence recipients in Hankow, China, after he had served most of his time.

No doubt Miss Davis and Mr. Magee will put on a good show with a smaller company. But the press should let folks know enough to satisfy normal curiosity and if a seat has been reserved for me, give it to some deserving and more curious soul. I'm going to Europe.

Story Overlooks Taxpayer Subsidy

Pertinent information was lacking in the article (March 10, 1971) about Marin Foundation group homes for wayward girls, located at 476 Cane Street, Larkspur. The article described in detail the various and many fine volunteer services furnished by the members of the foundation. It was noted that: "The Marin Foundation underwrites $10,000 for the support of the homes." Whether this is an annual subsidy or the total contribution since the program was started in 1964 was not clear.

Either way there would surely be a deficit . . .

Also: "There is a professional director for each group home and two house parents are under their supervision." That makes a regular staff of at least six, plus food, clothing and spending money.

Yes, there is quite a deficit and to meet it Marin County Taxpayers paid $60,984 to Marin Foundation this fiscal year (1970-71) for the care of seven (7) girls now in residence, assigned from county agencies. The rate is $726 per girl per month and an increase has been requested for the coming year.

Electrified Train Line Envisioned

On your article in "The Editor's Notebook" (Feb. 13):

As a Marin County resident for 14 years, I have noticed the growing air pollution and traffic congestion in our beautiful county. As a solution to this problem of pollution and transit (Golden Gate Bridge District), the remaining NWP right of way could be acquired by the bridge district after Schoonmaker's pullout from Sausalito.

The bridge district could then electrify the line and run commute trains between Novato and Sausalito. A connection with ferries at Sausalito would then take commuters to San Francisco.

An alternative to acquiring the right of way would be to have the railroad run commute trains to a ferry terminal in Sausalito or to the proposed terminal in Corte Madera.

If the terminal were located in Corte Madera, a smaller train would be run from Mill Valley to Sausalito and connect with the existing Bridge District ferry.

If this plan were to be adopted it would clear up some of the pollution and a lot of Marin's transit problems. I am sure many a Marinite would ride the trains and would be very glad to see them back.

Two Ways To Look At Bill For Revising Road Allocations

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — There are two ways to look at a bill by Assemblyman Pete Schabarum, R-Covina. The measure proposes a revision in the manner of allocating highway funds.

At present, gas tax monies, to be used solely for road building, are allocated for the most part on the basis of county areas, with the result that some counties are short-changed and others get more than their share.

Schabarum says this system is "completely outdated, confusing and unrealistic, and further, it does not meet the priority needs of the prime areas of traffic demands."

ONE WAY TO LOOK at the bill (and doubtless many legislators will look at it this way) is that it constitutes a further raid by the urban areas to rob the smaller counties of road funds. Rural legislators no doubt will label the measures the "big steal" of the century, designed to curtail road buildings to the point where most of the available funds will go for building city freeways.

The other way to look at it (and this will be favored by legislators with urban constituents) is that the growth of automobile transporation in California demands that the hundreds of millions of dollars collected from motorists be placed where the money will do the most good, namely in the urban areas where the traffic needs are the greatest.

It appears to be a disturbing anachronism to be driving down what amounts to almost a super-highway, nearly deserted, in a sparsely populated area, when less than an hour's drive distant, the traffic is moving bumper to bumper.

OBVIOUSLY, IF the Schabarum measure is taken at its face value, some of the rural areas of California will be hurt, and hurt badly. But, the proponents will argue, not as badly as the urban areas are being hurt because of overcrowded freeways, increases in the accident toll, and general annoyance.

Almost since the beginning of the current allocations system, which includes more funds for the south than the north, the system has been deficient. And the deficiencies are not lessening; to the contrary, they are growing worse with the increase in automobiles.

If the Schabarum bill does nothing else, it may result in evening up the allocations as far as need is concerned. The highways remain the major method in California of moving people, and this does not seem likely to change with all the money spent on rapid transit, which will care only for a minor per centage.

Sen. Jackson Worries Backers Of Democratic Front-Runners

WASHINGTON — Sen. Henry Jackson of the state of Washington is beginning to cause some nervous quivers in the ranks of the leading Democratic presidential candidates.

His name is surfacing as a serious contender. Recently he appeared on "Meet the Press," was the subject of a favorable cover story in a syndicated Sunday magazine, and was well-reported on speaking trips to Atlanta and San Francisco.

Jackson's most visible impact today seems to be on those influential Democrats who don't want to see him emerge as a challenger to Muskie, McGovern, Kennedy, Humphrey et al and who don't want to see him get the nomination under any circumstances.

ONLY A FEW DAYS ago one of the most influential Democratic leaders in the Capitol, one of the most powerful advocates of quick all-out withdrawal from Vietnam, was talking privately with a small group of Washington correspondents. The conversation inevitably got around to presidential politics and he was asked if he would give his candid appraisal of the senator with whom he most often disagrees.

We thought he might down play the political potential of the one Democrat that he would least like to see nominated. Not at all. He said slowly and deliberately:

WHY DANGEROUS from his point of view? There are three reasons:

Because Jackson is an effective advocate of defense and foreign policies substantially different from what the McGoverns, the Kennedys and the McCarthys want the Democratic Party to embrace in 1972.

Because Jackson has proved himself to have tremendous voter-appeal even against both Democratic and Republican dove candidates in his own state.

Because, while Muskie, Humphrey and Kennedy, now running neck-and-neck in the Gallup Poll as the three favorites among Democratic voters, compete with each other for party support, Jackson occupies a stance by himself to which many Democrats might wish to rally.

This is exactly what most Democrats and many Republicans did in the state of Washington in the senatorial election last November. An analysis of that race shows not only how formidable Senator Jackson is in his own state but why his opponents fear he would be formidable elsewhere in the country.

JACKSON WAS opposed for the senatorial nomination in the Democratic primary by a black lawyer from Spokane, Carl Maxey. Maxey centered his campaign on the "peace issue," opposing Jackson on defense spending on the ABM, on Vietnam — the issues where he thought the senator would be most vulnerable.

Result: Jackson won an 87 per cent popular endorsement and he carried all the predominantly Negro districts with a 60 per cent or more vote.

In the election itself Jackson was opposed by a well-known state senator and Yale graduate, Charles Elicker. Elicker posed the same challenge to the senator, raised most of the same issues.

And he got the same results — Jackson by an 84 per cent sweep topped every Democratic candidate in the nation except one in the Deep South.

IT IS TRUE that the Nixon administration did not help the Republican candidate — but that may have been an asset to Elicker. Jackson was himself opposed by the Galbraith-ADA group which was out to purge the Democratic Party of nearly everybody but themselves.

The Democratic senator quoted earlier in this column, explaining he could be candid only if his name were not used, fully realizes the potential of this remarkable election victory. He frankly says: "Jackson would do well anywhere."

BY NO MEANS NEUTRAL

Nixon's New Campaign To Humanize His Image

By ERNEST B. FURGURSON

WASHINGTON — Anybody still unused to the idea that next year is 1972, even after Richard Nixon's talk about a full employment budget, revenue sharing and the New American Revolution, will be brought up to date unmistakably by watching the current Humanization of the President.

It is not a wholly new effort. Earlier in his administration there were occasional gestures to portray him as a real man and father rather than mere politician and President, but they were exploratory and tentative. Now the moves toward that end have broadened into a campaign.

IT BEGAN EVEN before the Louis Harris survey taken at the end of February showed Mr. Nixon at an all-time low in the public's opinion of his "ability to inspire confidence personally in the White House." It came, in fact, at about the same time another Harris survey showed the President either outdoing or approximately matching Edmund Muskie and George Wallace, his principal potential rivals next year, in such qualities as sincerity, coolheadedness, strength, independence, decisiveness, confidence and good looks — and falling behind only in straightforwardness, up-to-dateness and excitement.

He opened up then for a long and revelatory interview with a British writer named Peregrine Worsthorne.

"One is instantly put at ease" by Mr. Nixon, Worsthorne reported in the London Sunday Telegraph. "Not because he seems to be at ease himself, but almost because he so evidently the opposite. His lack of assurance, the half-timid smile that flickers about his lips, somehow bridges the gap, enables the visitor to forget he is talking to the most powerful man on earth. . ."

That may sound like a mixed review, but remember it is of a man seeking to become more human. Lack of assurance and half-timidity are human attributes with which we all can identify.

FROM THERE the President moved to domestic exposure, before a group of women reporters, and discussed with them his wife's Colombian blend of coffee (although he drinks tea himself); his family's need for privacy; his liking for cottage cheese, and his admiration for Mrs. Nixon's stamina and companionship.

Most interestingly, he talked about himself — the real Nxon and the image and the fact that the two may indeed coincide. "I am, as has been reported, somewhat an unusual man to be in political life because I tend to be less gregarious, frankly, than the average person in this position or in public life."

Curiously, as if to explain his reserve, the President repeated several times that he is a "disciplined" man. That keeps him from being "overwhelmed by the crushing burden of paper work, all the things I have to read, all the people I have to see and so forth," he said.

The human being, not totally assured and a smidgeon timid, took a slight drubbing with that self-conscious emphasis of his ability to put first things first, something most of us have a hard time doing.

BUT NOT for long. The next step before the public was on the "Today" show, where he told Barbara Walters that he had made his decision to reenter presidential politics in an all-inclusive family discussion during the Nixons' 1967 Christmas vacation in Florida (and went unchallenged on the fact that he had said several times before that Christmas that he intended to enter the 1968 primaries).

And then, of course, came the gala Irish evening at the White House, and Tricia and Eddie's wedding plans, which alone will lead to another series of romantic, family — therefore human — parties and ceremonies. There will be more still, as Herb Klein and the President's other image-advisers experiment with various forms of private and mass interviews, receptions, and what the press office calls "photo opportunities."

What comes out of it is a President intensely concerned about what the public opinion polls say from week to week, desirous of cultivating high ratings in categories like straightforwardness and confidence — a man confident enough to undertake bold steps in Indochina 11,000 miles away or in the thickets of a proposal as complex as revenue sharing with the states, yet still too uncertain of himself in personal affairs to create that human image without coaching and planning.

Big Brother In San Anselmo: The Garbage Collection Gimmick

The San Anselmo City Council has adopted a gimmick favored by book and record-of-the-month clubs to lead residents to contract for a service they don't need.

As practiced by the book and record clubs, the gimmick consists of sending customers merchandise they didn't order and then billing them for unreturned goods.

The San Anselmo case is even more objectionable, because the city council uses as enforcer the San Anselmo Garbage Disposal.

Here's how the operation works: The disposal company, at the direction of the council, sent out a notice in November informing customers that they would be switched to the unlimited collection rate unless they requested in writing to remain on the single-can rate.

Unlimited service includes one can of wet garbage and any amount of dry refuse and costs $4.50 a month, while the one-can rate is $2.50 per month.

If the customer didn't respond —and about 3,000 of the firm's 4,200 customers didn't last year — the company was told by the council to begin billing him for unlimited service.

THIS PRACTICE, initiated after the backyard burning ban went into effect in January, 1970, already has caused many problems. A woman who works for the disposal company told of an elderly lady living on a pension who called in tears to say she couldn't possibly pay $2 more a month.

Many other subscribers, to whom $2 isn't quite so important, paid the increase without thinking. "Inflation has made everything more expensive," one man said, "and I thought the rates had gone up."

At this point the woman employe began taking it upon herself to notify customers that they didn't have to take the more expensive service. She took lists of names and telephone numbers home and called subscribers at night, explaining that theycould keep the old rate if they wished.

Those who couldn't be reached by telephone opened their January and February bills to find a notation in green ink: "Please notify us if unlimited rate is incorrect for 1971."

And notify the company they did. The employee said she has fielded dozens of irate phone calls from customers demanding to know what the company was trying to do.

"WE DIDN'T WANT to do this in the first place," the woman said. "It's a lot of extra work to put someone on unlimited, bill him, and then have to take him off again." Not to mention, of course, the time spent making telephone calls and writing notes in green ink on 3,000 bills.

The woman said she didn't think the council had the right to decide that San Anselmo citizens want a more expensive type of garbage service. "If they (the customers) want unlimited, they'll call and tell us," she said.

City Administrator Alfred C. Kaeppel shed some light on why councilmen decided they knew what sort of garbage service the citizens needed: "They (councilmen) wanted the people to think of the unlimited service as normal."

The council, he said, felt it was doing residents a favor by giving them a chance to get rid of debris which no longer could be burned.

A favor? Perhaps, but people like to make up their own minds about such things. The council is buying a lot of resentment, which is spilling over — undeservedly — on San Anselmo Garbage Disposal Co.

COUNTY COMMENT

By WILLIAM D. (BILL) FUSSELMAN

No Vacation For Supervisors In Old $500-A-Month Days

In 1963 I had decided not to run again on the expiration of my term as county supervisor. Nevertheless certain developments caused a sizeable group to urge me to again be a candidate. During the period that I thought I would no longer be involved as an elected official, I felt free to accept an invitation of one of the grand jury committees to meet with it and discuss county government.

At that meeting we went into the entire structure and operation. Among other things I strongly urged that the salary of the supervisors be raised to $1,000 a month, with the proviso that at least three quarters of their time be devoted to the office, visiting departments or working in the field. During this interval they would not conduct any private business except in an emergency. The grand jury later recommended to the State Legislature that the salary be raised from the then $500 to $800 per month, to be effective Jan. 1, 1965. Later it was set at the present $1,000 a month.

My purpose in relating this is two-fold: to give you the background and to state my continuing belief.

NEXT I WISH to compare what the board of supervisors' work schedule was and what it is not.

The entire board met at least once a week and two-man committees met at varying times for one or more hours most of the weeks. The state law provides that the auditor-controller shall present a budget to the board each year. Then the first of June we would start meeting with him and each department head in the board's hearing room.

Beginning the first of July we would sit as a board of equalization to hear assessment appeals by taxpayers. This would continue for 21 days, after which we could no longer hear requests but could work on inspection of properties involved. We would then meet to vote on those requests that had not been concluded at the hearings.

Immediately after that we would resume the budget considerations. A budget had to be determined on or before Aug. 20. Following this the auditor-controller would take the final assessment roll as adjusted and calculate the tax rate required. After considering possible contingencies we would be required to set the tax rate by Sept. 1.

YOU WILL NOTE that this took us all through the summer vacation period. These things we did for salaries starting with $100 per month, which gradually grew to the $500 that was being paid when I left.

Now the administrator works with the departments, with the auditor-controller sitting in to keep up with the financial picture as it develops. The supervisors no longer sit as a board of equalization. A commission has been appointed to do that.

Now consider this as a starter. Six years ago — March of 1965 — taxes at the local level had increased across the nation since World War II 300 per cent, which was twice the increase in federal taxes.

In Marin from 1946-47 to 1964-65 the increase had been 942 per cent. This was the beginning of the present form of operation in Marin, which was promised to save mountains of taxes by the efficiency that would result.

From time to time — possibly each week (depending on the current situation) I propose to trace what has happened since.

Young wives between ages 18 and 19 expect to have two or three children, according to the Census Bureau.

Drainage Ordinance Gets Green Light

A drainage ordinance to accumulate funds to pay for a $560,000 master drainage plan for Bel Aire has received the go-ahead from the Bel Aire Flood Control Zone advisory board.

County flood control engineer Charles E. Murphy said the board told him Wednesday to draft an ordinance for board consideration.

The ordinance would set fees for property owners in the Bel Aire drainage basin, based on the amount of land they hold.

As proposed by Murphy, the fee would be $1,270 per acre for property in the east ditch area and $600 per acre in the west ditch area, with Blackfield Drive dividing the two. Property in the central area above Karen Way would be assessed about $2,500 per acre.

The ordinance would apply immediately to new subdivisions in the zone and eventually to all property owners, Murphy said.

The advisory board also discussed two methods of financing the $560,000 plan, a bond issue and accumulating the money through taxes, but dropped them.

Murphy said board members thought there was little chance that voters would approve a bond issue and that accruing the money through taxes would be a slow process, even at the zone's maximum tax rate of $1 per $100 assessed valuation.

Murphy said that if the tax rate, now 50 cents per $100, were raised to the Maximum, the zone would receive about $60,000 a year. With yearly maintenance expenses subtracted from that figure, it would take between 15 and 20 years to pay for the master plan improvements, he said.

No date was set for the next board meeting, but Murphy said the advisory panel must begin budget discussions in mid-April. If the drainage ordinance is prepared before then, he said, a special meeting may be called.

Tate Act Is Called Inhuman

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — "These defendants are not human beings, ladies and gentlemen, they are not human beings," said the prosecutor in the Tate murder trial.

"Human beings have a heart and a soul. No one with a heart and a soul could have done what these defendants did to those seven victims.

"These defendants are human monsters, human mutations."

Vincent Bugliosi, in a thundering 10-minute final argument demanded the gas chamber for Charles Manson, Leslie Van Houten, Susan Atkins and Patricia Krenwinkel for the murders of actress Sharon Tate and six other persons in August, 1969.

Manson's lawyer, Irving Kanarek, followed Bugliosi and started his closing arguments expected to last two days.

Although Manson has been convicted of seven counts of first degree murder, the thrust of Kanarek's argument was that he was absolutely innocent.

Attorneys for the young women will follow Kanarek, with the case expected to go to the jury for a decision on life imprisonment or death sentences late next year.

Hearings On Rezoning Pleas Set

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — Public hearings on three rezoning requests in Southern Sonoma were set yesterday by the Sonoma County Planning Commission.

A hearing was set for April 1 on the request of W. I. Jones and 15 other property owners to rezone 300 acres in Penngrove to permit rural residential development. The zoning would set minimum lot size at 1.25 acres.

Also set for April 1 was a hearing on the request of Richard McCaulley of Rohnert Park to change the agricultural zoning to general commercial on three acres at the northeast corner of Gravenstein Highway and Stony Point Road. McCaulley intends to use the land for retail sales and storage of fence materials.

A hearing was set for April 15 on the request of Octagon Tract Co. to rezone 31.5 acres at Petaluma Hill Road and Keiser Lane, Cotati, from agricultural to planned community. A student housing complex is planned as well as some quasi-commercial development.

Presidio Bike Path Supported

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — The commander of the Sixth Army and the Presidio of San Francisco said last night he would endorse granting bicyclists use of a 1.25-mile path through the Presidio.

Lt. Gen. Stanley Larsen said he would recommend to the Department of Defense that an easement for the path be approved if the city formally requests a path.

He made the announcement after he and an aide conferred with Diane Feinstein, president of the board of supervisors.

Although cyclists now have use of a temporary path through the Presidio, they long have sought a permanent route linking Lake Merced with Mill Valley, via the Golden Gate Bridge.

Battery Case Counts Pending

No charges have been filed in Marin Municipal Court against Terry Scott Borrman, 21, of Tamalpais Valley, who was arrested Monday on suspicion of battery on a police officer, burglary and being drunk in public.

He and two youths, who were booked into Marin Juvenile Hall, are suspected of breaking into a snack bar at Tamalpais High School.

The district attorney's office said the case still was being investigated.

CHAMPA THONG

'Golden Flower' To The People Of Laos

Pan American stewardess Tanis Janes of Sausalito has made a name for herself in Champassak, Laos — the much loved one of Champa Thong or "Golden Flower."

One of the first westerners in this village where the people choose to ignore the distant thunder of bombs, Tanis became the first Pan American stewardess to live there with the people and become their first English teacher. She adopted the Lao language and the long dress of the country and practiced Lao traditions, even to rising before dawn to join villagers in paying respects to saffron-robed Buddhist monks.

To accomplish all this the University of California graduate was granted leave from her airline last August to join the San Francisco-based Thomas A. Dooley Foundation, a non-profit medical group serving throughout Southeast Asia, which uses stewardesses as teachers and assistants in a short-term volunteer program.

"I came to Laos to become involved in the basics of living," she said. "I'm no do-gooder. I didn't come to help the people. I was looking for the edge between life and death, the razor's edge, so to speak."

But help she did. Soon after she arrived she was busy teaching English to 40 students, and in this, her first teaching experience, she taught completely without books, creating the lessons and educational tools as she went.

"At first the thought of teaching seemed ludicrous, not only the idea of me before a class but the idea of people in Champassak learning our language. Then I learned the Lao consider English the international language and that to enter the mainstream of world medicine one must speak English.

"TEACHING HAS been a delight. It has been fun, stimulating and rewarding, and, most of all, it has given me the opportunity of establishing rapport with the people, something invaluable, something to treasure forever."

Tanis's students included the Chao Khoueng (governor of the province) and his staff, young Lao medics and any other interested persons. Classrooms varied from the governor's mansion to crude wood porches and the operating room of a tiny jungle hospital. To reach her students she walked or rode bicycles over the rutted paths. During monsoon season she went by boat.

"In the wet season waters rush down from the mountains to flood the village," she said. "I could go only so far on foot. Then a young Lao boy would row out in a tiny piroque to paddle me and the rest of the Dooley staff to the hospital.

"He spent so much time in the flood water swimming to the piroque and rowing people between hospital and clinic building that he contracted parasites from the polluted water and was hospitalized.

"To cheer him up, I took my puppets to the hospital and put on daily shows for him."

This was an example of the foundation's method of teaching through entertainment.

BECAUSE 70 per cent of the people of Laos live in isolated villages along the Mekong river, Tanis explained, and because the foundation concentrates much of its work in these sites, the medical team relies on Project Showboat. Two medically-equipped American houseboats now tour the Mekong to deliver foundation personnel to people who need help and to teach them health principles through entertainment.

In a showboat visit at Ban Done Dahn, a primitive village miles from Champassak, Tanis staged a puppet show to school children about reasons for drinking boiled water, wearing shoes and staying clean. This was followed by a health lecture for adults.

Using an interpreter and visual aids, she encouraged mothers to cook food and to use mosquito netting in their homes to lessen the incidence of malaria. Tanis wrote five puppet health skits to add to the foundation's repertoire during her stay.

Dr. Verne Chaney, founder and president of the Dooley Foundation, has said, "No matter how many drugs and doctors we import to Asia, we can never break the disease cycle until people understand what makes them sick and how to stay well. This is why Tanis and the 180 other volunteer stewardesses before her are so important. With these girls we add a little showmanship, a little color to our lessons. And we just hope the people will remember our words the next time they feel like eating raw pork or drinking the polluted waters of the Mekong."

The Dooley Foundation does what it can to break the tragic disease cycle, but in a land of 3,000,000 people, 20 primitive hospitals and only 28 native physicians, it's a big job.

TRAINING HAPPENS at all levels. In the hospital each Foundation staff member trains one or two Lao in his medical specialty. These students are rapidly becoming proficient in laboratory, X-ray and diagnostic techniques. In remote villages the stewardesses teach more basic lessons, such as how to use soap and toothpaste or how to bathe a baby.

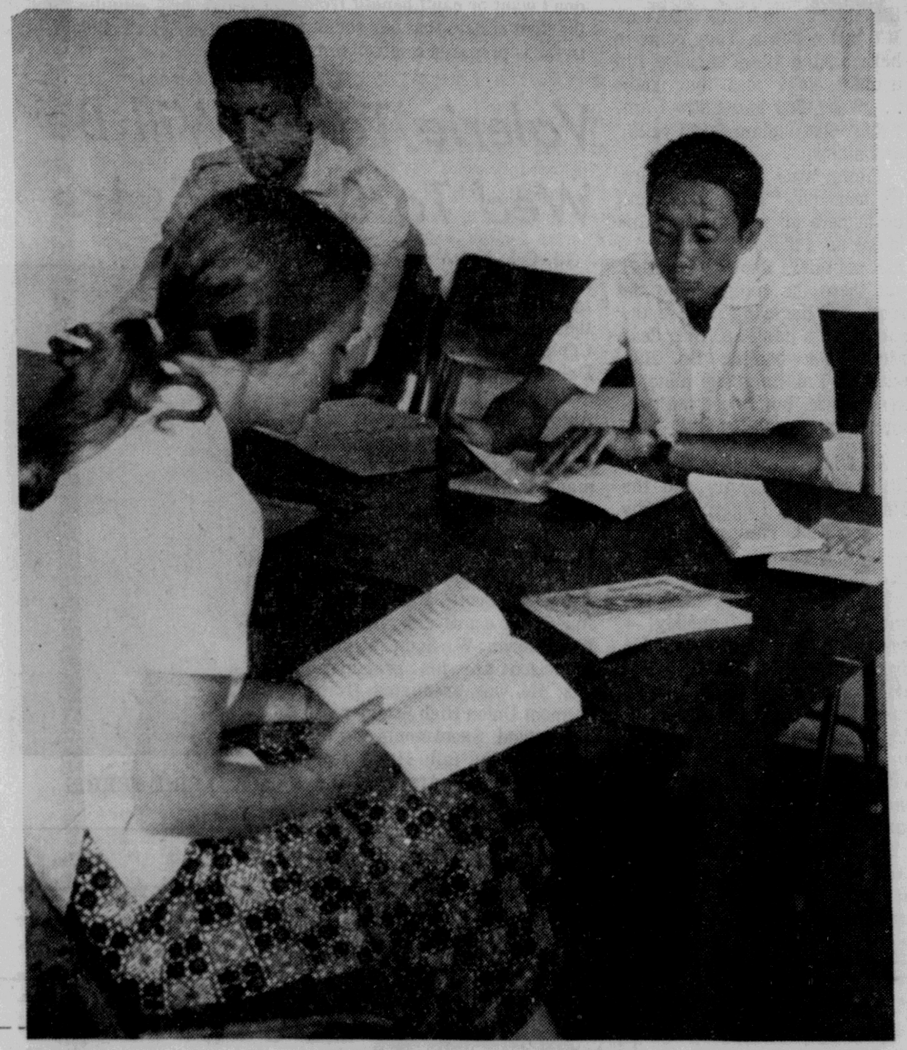
"I joined the Dooley Foundation," Tanis said, "for a chance to roll up my sleeves, to do some hard work, to get outside the American community.

"One of the greatest honors was having my students present me with a Lao name. To them it is like a rebirth. Champa Thong — golden flower — is the national flower of the province of Champassak. That name made me one with them.

"These months have been the greatest of my life. Just being in this country has been an invaluable experience. Perhaps my work will help these gentle people to be better understood throughout the world."

Tanis came home recently, but only to prepare for further work in Laos. She is now studying French at the Alliance Francaise in Paris. With a proficiency in French, she hopes to return to Laos to do research in this country's cultural and ethnic history during future leaves from her job as a stewardess, which she will resume when she returns to Sausalito at the end of May.

DOOLEY FOUNDATION volunteer and Pan American stewardess Tanis Janes of Sausalito teaches health principles in the puppet shows she gives for children in the Laos jungles. Tanis wrote five such puppet shows for the foundation repertoire during her term of volunteer work in Laos.



TANIS JANES, Dooley Foundation volunteer who lives in Sausalito, works in peace in a land at war. The airline stewardess took a break from flying to become the first English teacher for the people in Champassak, Laos. The University of California graduate adopted the long dress of the county during her stay there.

Avery Brundage, who donated most of the jade, will attend the reception. The gallery is the only one in an American museum to be created especially for the display of jades.

Other Marinites on the committee are Y'von d'Argence of Mill Valley, Mrs. Roger Kent of Kentfield, Constant M. Van Vlierden of Sausalito and Dr. S. I. Hayakawa of Mill Valley.

Roseann is the daughter of Mrs. John Daneri of Fairfax and Edwin Foppiani of San Francisco. Both the bride's parents and Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Gray of Linthicum, Md., parents of the bridegroom, attended the wedding.

New Book All About Women

By KATHLEEN NEUMEYER

ENCINO, (UPI) — Dr. Richard E. Sand, a gynecologist for 14 years, is amazed at the ignorance of most women about how their own bodies function. So he's written a book to help explain nature's way.

Dr. Sand, married and the father of two teen-aged daughters, said when he looked for a reference book to help guide his patients he could not find one. So he wrote his own, a 302-page volume which he said was "incubated, labored and delivered not as a result of mad passion, but as a duty, a means of filling a need lacking in literature today."

"There are many sexual cookbooks about where to, why and what way," said the gynecologist. "But nothing has ever been done, no source the average woman can refer to in an effort to inform herself about her equipment and why it works in this fashion, and what variations should be ignored and what ones should be called to the attention of her physician.

"IT IS not a sex book, although it does touch on sex. How can a gynecologist discuss the female gender without dealing with sex?"

"Things Your Mother Never Told You" discusses anatomy, menstruation and menstrual problems, birth control, vaginal infections and other feminine afflictions, puberty and adolescence, menopause, sex after 60, infertility and abortion.

It also gives hints on how to choose a physician in a new city—(ask a nurse at a large hospital which doctor she would choose for her own family)—and discusses what a periodic checkup should include—(Pap smear, blood count, chest xray, serology, urinalysis, complete physical examination and medical history.)

An Unusual Public Official

By JANE SHOEMAKER

HARRISBURG, Pa. (UPI) — Pennsylvania's new secretary of public welfare is an unusual woman to find in public life. She did not go to college, has never held public office and, in fact, has worked at a job only two years out of the last 28.

Mrs. Helene Wohlgemuth has been too busy being a volunteer worker, housewife, executive's wife and grandmother to accumulate the usual foundation of degrees and affiliations which public officials often sport.

"I HAVE a way of immersing myself into things," Mrs. Wohlgemuth said. "It is like the reflex when a doctor hits your knee."

A decade ago she was a western Pennsylvania housewife who, bored with the daily routine of housework, looked in the telephone directory for an organization that needed volunteer help. Word traveled quickly that she was enthusiastic and capable, so Mrs. Wohlgemuth expanded her volunteer work until, after serving as a welfare consultant in the state General Assembly, she was tapped by Democratic Gov. Milton J. Shapp to head Pennsylvania's welfare department.

"I'm putting all of my 48 years on the line," she said, "but if something is important enough to you, you have to give up the coffee break, the bridge game, the hairdresser's appointment. Women have to be dissatisfied with not being involved."

Along with her official duties, Mrs. Wohlgemuth keeps an apartment in Harrisburg, maintains her home in the Pittsburgh suburb of Sewickley and continues entertaining business associates of her husband, a vice-president of Babcock and Wilcox Steel Co. Even on weekends her state responsibilities keep the telephone in her suburban home constantly ringing.

"FOR THE first time in 28 years of married life, I burned soup!" she said of her first busy weekend as welfare secretary.

But she would not want it any other way, for the extra ounce of "giving" is her key to feeling fulfilled.

Her compassion for the underprivileged and her strong faith in the integrity of man pervade her conversations about welfare; in fact, she admitted she must choose her words carefully.

"I have to watch what I say about welfare so it won't be mistaken for the bleeding heart and sob story," she said.

Children with problems, some 400,000 of them on Pennsylvania's welfare rolls, will occupy a hefty chunk of Mrs. Wohlgemuth's time in the next four years. If she cannot find the time to handle her many responsibilities, "I'll just make it."

"If I say 'Kids need help but I want to play 18 holes of golf,' I'm not practicing what I believe in," she said.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Is It Her Fault Her Husband Leaves Her 12 Steps Behind?

DEAR HELEN:

How would you advise this woman? I am close to her offspring, so I can't give my name.

Her husband works seven days a week, his second job being a hobby. He has no time, energy or money to socialize with his wife, though he spends on other pleasures. If some social thing links her with him, she must trail 12 paces behind while he is the life of the party.

He did manage to spend considerable money on a big family reunion that included an expensive picture with him in the center surrounded with pretty young things while his wife was dangling on the very edge of the group. The wife had her image blocked out in the reproduction as she says "it would remind her of her status in his life."

I feel she may be far out in resenting this disrespect from her husband. After all, she is an older woman and age has not enhanced her looks, while her husband continues to be charming, youthful and popular. True, she has contributed much to his success and has worked hard raising a good family, but isn't it enough that he stays with her?

Even his folks are aware of his sacrifices. They may not have invitations or room for her but they don't close him off. They always have a bed waiting for him, and friends for him to meet if he needs feminine company. You'd think the wife would get the message that she has served her purpose and is passe.

Don't you think a definite break would be more dignified at her age than what many women do: Turn to drink, drugs, or "bought" affairs? She has no vices, so her only fault is her age and plainness. Of course her attempts at communication are called nagging. Your suggestions, please. — A FRIEND

DEAR "FRIEND":

You are "close to this woman's offspring" because you are this woman, as another letter (signed "Second Class Citizen") proves. It came in the same mailbag, carried the same commemorative stamp and postmark; was written on the same stationery with the same typewriter. And through it ran the same thread of deep self-pity, though this time, first person.

Look, my friend, injustice collectors always find what they seek because their actions make people shun them. While you see yourself as the poor, "old" wornout, cast-aside slavey who "has no faults but age and plainness," others may see you as a jealous, holier-than-thou type who makes life miserable for everyone around her.

Trying to drum up advice column sympathy won't help your cause, nor will it "shame" your husband. Perhaps you have a case: I've no doubt you are neglected and avoided, but until you get honest and admit you bring much of this on yourself, you'll keep on drowning in crocodile tears.

My suggestion? See a good psychotherapist and don't hit him with the con job you tried to pull on me. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

Two years ago we bought a car from a used-car lot. The dealer guaranteed it for 90 days, but it didn't last that long. First the transmission wouldn't hold fluid and then the motor blew. We refused to pay for the car when the dealer refused to fix it. So we parked it. He never repossessed it.

Recently a finance company (who bought the dealers' papers) has started dunning us. After two years, can they collect? — NO MONEY

DEAR NO:

You should have "parked" the car on the dealer's doorstep two years ago. Since a finance company now has his papers, you may face a losing battle. Consult the Legal Aid Society in your city. — H.

This column is dedicated to family living, so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen help you. Address Helen Bottel in care of the Independent-Journal.

Sensual Lines

New hairstyles for spring and summer are pretty and romantic, reports the National Hairdressers and Cosmetologists Association Inc. They are usually composed of supple waves that flow either in languidly sensual lines, or soft wavelets which are either highly defined or have just a suggestion of motion. Curls, too, make the scene in all variations, from short half-curls to clusters of spirals of true or false hair.

ON BEING BLACK

Both Are Losers, Pawns In A Giant Chess Game

By SANDRA HAGGERTY

"Now, just look at that fool!" the young man said, applying his manicured fingers to his temples as if in anticipation of a headache. "He hasn't given up yet!"

Timmy drew my attention to the shabbily dressed man peering through the shop window. The man (who, strangely, looked both young and old) glanced furtively from side to side and cautiously approached the entrance way.

"Don't you come in here! Don't you dare!" said Timmy, placing one hand on his hip and nervously shaking his finger with the other.

Turning to me, he sighed, "Oh, dear me, I just don't know if I can take it any more. I'm just not used to raising my voice and all. They (dope addicts) come in here all the time. They send me to the back room to find some article and then they steal something and run. It's just not fair. They come in here all the time because I'm usually alone and they know . . . Well, they know how I am. I don't like violence and yellin' and all."

Timmy was almost in tears. He went on, "The police can't be in here all the time. If this keeps up, I'll lose the shop. It's just not fair. I know the brother out there (he motioned to the man still lingering outside the shop) has a hang-up. But, dear me, I have one, too. But, ummm, I'm handling mine. I sympathize, but I just can't afford to support his habit."

AS I LEFT the shop, I felt a little sad for Timmy and the Head who still lingered nearby on the street. They were losers — both of them — little pawns in a giant chess game.

Timmy would very likely go out of business — quickly — because he was different. He preferred Joy perfume to He-Man shaving lotion and manicured nails to dirty ones. The dope addicts who recognized him as another insecure soul with a socially unacceptable hand-up were quick to take advantage of his vulnerability.

The Head would continue his daily routine of thievery to feed his habit. He would be busted periodically perhaps, but for the most part, he would spend the greater portion of his life dissipating his body and shortening his life span with the intake of drugs.

Drugs (and the accompanying crime rate) are not a new phenomenon, but the effects of drug addiction have certainly ravaged our communities.

THE SOBERING fact is that too many addicts obviously don't want or can't benefit from the kind of help that our society so far is prepared to give them.

One is led to the conclusion that the narcotics problem cannot be solved or eliminated on the streets.

The little people — the addicts and the Timmys — are the individuals who show the scars of the continuing battle.

The big money-makers — the drug producers, the importers and the giant incognito drug corporations — are the ones to attack if we ever intend to solve the problem.

Observing the man on the street enmeshed in the drug scene, one is forced to ponder answers to Dick Gregory's question:

How is it possible that a 9-year-old kid can locate a source of drugs in 5 minutes, but the authorities can't locate it at all?

Gynecologists' Book Tells Women About Their Bodies

"My purpose is to inform and to dispel fear," Dr. Sand said. "Menopause is the area in which there is the greatest amount of misinformation and misapprehension.

"Fears are enormous. Women are afraid that when they reach their middle years such terrible things will happen that they will no longer be women, that they won't be attractive to their husbands, that they won't be sexually responsive.'

"IN REALITY, none of these things need happen," Dr. Sand said.

"These women look at their mothers and grandmothers and remember what happened to them when they went through menopause, forgetting that their grandmothers at 45 were much older women than today's 45-year-olds."

A native of Cleveland, Dr. Sand has written numerous articles and some radio scripts. It took him about a month to put the current book on paper.

"But I'd been writing it in my head for 18 or 19 years," he said, beginning in medical school at Ohio State University, during his time as a general practitioner in Akron, Ohio, his residency at Camarillo State Mental Hospital north of Encino, Calif., and during his practice in this Los Angeles suburb.

Witchcraft Teacher Fired

TUCSON, Ariz. (UPI)—Mrs. Ann Stewart, a high school English teacher accused of telling her students she was a witch and instructing them in witchcraft, was fired Thursday.

The school board of the small Northside Flowing Wells School District notified the 11-year teaching veteran her contract would not be renewed for the next school year. However, she will receive her full salary for the 1970-71 school year.

Mrs. Stewart was suspended from teaching three months ago after School Superintendent Marlin Yoder brought the charges against her.

"I never told anyone I was a witch," Mrs. Stewart said. "I told my kids I had all the physical characteristics of a witch, and they chose to believe I was one."

TOPS Club Elects Mrs. Shihadeh

MRS. JAMES SHIHADEH

Mrs. James Shihadeh, a resident of Marin for eight years but a newcomer to Novato, is the new leader of the Novato TOPS (Take Off Pounds Sensibly.)

Yvonne Shihadeh and her husband, a businessman in San Francisco, are the parents of Scott, 6, and Susan, 5 years old.

Yvonne says "Our first priority at this point in life is our young family."

She is a devoted water skier, golfer and painter and "enjoys greatly playing banjo and guitar with the Novato Newcomers Rural Band." Ecology is important in her family life, she says, as the family loves the outdoors. Child psychology is also a keen interest, she says.

Yvonne was born in Michigan but spent her youth in Plumas County. She is a dental technician, attended Chico State College, San Francisco State College and San Francisco Dental Nurses College.

Cook Meat

Always cook meat and poultry at low to moderate temperatures. This provides maximum tenderness and juiciness and yields more meat, less shrinkage. It also helps make sure the center is fully cooked without the outside being overdone.

Ballet Shoes

At-home fashions for the feet feature soft leathers trimmed casually with fringe, hardware or appliques. Leather ballet slippers make great leisure time shoes, too.

ART REVIEW

British Designer Craftsmen Produce 'Jolly-Good' Output

By LAURA DEVENDORF

It's a risk bringing any outside show of contemporary crafts into the Bay Area. There are just too many exceptional craftsmen here. The exposure is great, the taste level is high and we expect so much that such shows often seem anticlimactic.

Even with all we've come to expect, the British Designer Craftsmen exhibition circulated by the Smithsonian Institution and showing through April 18 at the College of Marin gallery, is still no letdown. It's goodlooking. Everything in it is well crafted. And while the techniques are nothing new, usually enough of each artist's personality comes through to make his work meaningful.

If any category goes beyond our local craftsmen, it is silver work. And British silversmiths have brought their art into today with sleek, gleaming, contemporary designs of great dignity, whether in pieces as traditional as a teapot or as new as a cigarette box which undulates like a wave.

There's nothing wrong with Britain's fabrics either. Some lengths share the cool reserve of Peter Collingwood's "Macrogauze" series which crisscrosses layers of threads and catches them over occasional horizontal rods.

Others more closely follow Tadek Beutlich's casual usage of knots, loops, curls and thick braids of jute, cotton, wool, horsehair, mohair and other fibers.

These weavings are subdued, but color pulses through many other panels. There are lengths of echo checks in green, yellow and orange or in purple, turquoise, reds and blue. There are several huge floating banners and still other abstract designs with patches and pools of the clearest prism hues.

Quite a few British crafts are ecclesiastical in theme. An applique and gold embroidery on purple silk depicts the "Last Supper." And one of the most enjoyable pieces in the show is Barbara Dawson's, "The Ascension," an applique in weaving and tufting on felt and dralon which is bearded in hot blues, purples and green and quilted and inscribed in many interesting ways.

The most avant garde ceramic piece is Anthony Hepburn's slab-built dented box. Otherwise, ceramics are conservative. That still covers a lot of ground and might mean a crusty, squat mushroom broken open on top, or a clean, dark pot shaped like a hatchet, or tall rough chimney forms, or delicate porcelain bowls, or almost anything that takes advantage of its materials with quiet good taste.

The glass and jewelry have usually the same reserve. While toys, wood turnery and furniture, considering that this is Britain's best, seem weak by American standards.

There is one final item which should be mentioned. That is the loopy, wall-sized rug made by old-age pensioners and disabled people at Blackfriars settlement and lovingly included in this exhibit of professional designer-craftsmen.

In summing up this show, this quote from the catalogue by Britain's J. Noel White, Vice President of the World Crafts Council, is, as they say in this country, "Right on!"

". . . the merit of this exhibition lies in its ability to delight the sensitive perceptions of the spectator. For the crafts still make the most direct appeal to the combination of vision and touch, inviting the co-ordination of these two senses in an aesthetic experience which sculpture and painting are only now beginning to attempt."

Leland Hayward Dies At 68

NEW YORK (UPI)—Leland Hayward, called "the greatest agent in the world" by Ernest Hemingway and the producer of such Broadway hits as "South Pacific" and "The Sound of Music," died Thursday following a long illness. He was 68.

During his career as a theatrical and literary agent, Hayward represented entertainers James Stewart, Judy Garland, Clark Gable, Henry Fonda, Fred Astaire, Katharine Hepburn and writers including Hemingway, Edna Ferber, Ben Hecht, Charles MacArthur and Dashiell Hammett.

At one time, he was selling more than $3 million a year in talent and rights to books and plays.

Other hits he produced were "A Bell for Adano," "Mister Roberts," "State of the Union," "Point of No Return," "Call Me Madam," "Gypsy," and "Anne of the Thousand Days."

The most recent production with which he was associated was the current off-Broadway show, "The Trial of the Catonsville Nine." He was coproducer of that play.

He also produced the films, "Mister Roberts," "The Old Man and the Sea," and "The Spirit of St. Louis."

Born in Nebraska City, Neb., Hayward was not an instant success. He twice entered Princeton University and twice left and was fired from the New York Sun after a brief stint as a reporter.

He drifted to Hollywood where he reportedly heard a nightclub owner say he would give $3,000 to $4,000 a week if he could have someone like the dancers Fred and Adele Astaire perform at his club.

Hayward approached the Astaires who agreed to the terms and he was on his way as an agent.

FAMILY

"Cromwell" — Exquisitely photographed historical spectacular about the Puritan Reformation and civil war in 17th Century England.

"My Fair Lady" — Based on Shaw's comedy about a witty speech authority who transforms a flower girl with a cockney accent into an aristocratic lady. Extraordinary entertainment for all.

"Twelve Chairs" — Slapstick historical comedy about family jewels that were hidden in a chair before the revolution in Russia. Motivated by pure greed the frantic search provides a delightfully entertaining treat. Don't miss it.

"Tora, Tora, Tora" — Impressive dramatization of the attack on Pearl Harbor, seen from both the American and Japanese point of view. Excellent cast, amazing photography, well worth seeing.

ADULTS AND TEENS

"Cross and the Switchblade" — Thought provoking dramatization of the real life experiences of a minister who envades the violent and drug addicted ghettoes of Harlem armed only with a Bible and strong faith. Acting by the youthful cast is fine, free and vivid.

"Great White Hope" — Fictionalized story of Jack Johnson. It exposes the ugliness of racial hate and the blood lust of the fight ring. Strong drama will appeal to fight fans.

BORDERLINE

(Most sources say Adults Only)

"Alex In Wonderland" — A sad comedy about a "hippie" type movie director who fantasized "Fellini" fashion about plot material for his next film. Film excesses offset by brilliant script and acting.

"Woodstock" — A three-hour documentary film record of the three-day rock musical held in August 1969 with an audience of 500,000 young people. Love making, nudity and foul language abundant.

"Zig Zag" — An intriguing mystery about an insurance salesman (doomed to death by a brain tumor) who frames himself in an unsolved murder to get the reward money for his family. After conviction he tries to prove his innocence. Ethics are confused.

ADULTS ONLY

"Boys In The Band" — Adapted from the Broadway play. Eight homosexuals hold a party in a New York apartment. Beneath the wit and campy affectations lies a sad statement on self deception and emotional waste that could apply to anyone. Shockingly frank sex talk. A searing study of homosexuals.

"Brewster McCloud" — The director drives this overdone comedy straight into the ground. The story, if one can be pieced together is about a man who is being taught to fly, like a bird. A rash of mysterious deaths caused by bird droppings brings a typical police investigation on the scene. Humor is minimal, foolishness is offensive, overlong and a bore. Usual sex and nudity.

"Five Easy Pieces" — Free-form portrait of an exile from a highbrow musical family who cops out of a routine lower-middle class existence. Explicit sex and frank dialogue.

"Kremlin Letter" — Cynical espoinage melodrama and its unsavory practitioniers. A melange of murders that are sadistically violent, drugs and sex. Expecting clarification of the motivations and confused politics of characters one fells cheated when film ends with no answers. Although well cast and acted film lacks substance.

"Midnight Cowboy" — Offbeat story about a vain Texan who comes to New York to be a male prostitute and his relationship with a crippled bum. Many sordid depressing scenes but thought provoking. Well acted.

"Owl and the Pussycat" — Racy adult comedy about a prostitute with illusions of being a model and a shy unsuccessful author and their unlikely relationship. Sex is frank and abundant and Barbra's vocabulary includes as much profanity as the average stevedore and at the top of her voice.

"Statue" — A film guaranteed to offend everyone. An 18-foot nude statue of a Nobel Peace Prize winner is accurate except for its personal parts. Since his wife was the sculptress, the plot revolves around the man's efforts to find the one who modeled for that specific job. How could they inflict this on the movie public? Vulgar, and shoddy.

"Women In Love" — D. H. Lawrence's novel about total physical and spiritual love between the same and the opposite sex are explored extensively by very explicit, sensual sex scenes. Direction, acting and photography very good.

Bridge Insurance Fight Brewing

The first serious challenge in 34 years to the Golden Gate Bridge District's insurance broker was posed yesterday by a rival broker.

Marsh and McLennan Inc. and its corporate predecessors have been the district's insurance broker since the bridge was built, but have been under increasing fire from district directors for failing to get enough coverage on the structure.

Coverage stood at $57 million until about five years ago, but has slipped to $32 million. The structure is worth about $185 million.

March and McLennan have blamed the falling coverage on a jittery world-wide insurance industry, but another firm has claimed it could get the coverage at least back up to the former high.

The rival firm, Bayly, Martin and Fay Inc. made its pitch before the district's insurance committee. Samuel Alcorn, its vice president, said his firm would increase the coverage by scrapping March and McLennan's system of obliging each insurer to share coverage of all damage loss, regardless of how low it may be.

This discourages a lot of insurers who don't want to cover smaller losses, Alcorn said. His firm's plan would allow insurers to cover, for example, a $10 million loss — but not have to also cover lower losses.

The committee members, apparently split on whether to recommend board approval of a switch to Bayly, Martin and Fay, unanimously asked the firm to present a written proposal for review by the district's attorney.

The district's annual premium for the coverage now averages $200,000. Previous challenges to Marsh and McLennan, which claims to be the world's largest insurance brokerage firm, have been summarily rejected in past years by the committee.

The committee's gloom over the low coverage on the bridge was lifted somewhat, however, by a report that a new federal law apparently could mean the federal government would pay the cost of repairing or replacing the bridge if it were damaged severely.

Donn McVeigh, an insurance broker working on a plan to pool insurance coverage for similar structures throughout the world, said the new law was going to cover the cost of several hundred million dollars in damage in the Los Angeles earthquake to public buildings.

The federal funds, however, are not released unless the president declares the area a disaster, he cautioned. But McVeigh added that such a declaration was almost certain if the Bay Area were hit by a major earthquake.

The district's engineer, Robert E. Shields, said that total loss of the bridge was "very remote," regardless of the magnitude of any likely earthquake.

The Golden Gate Bridge District's insurance committee, and later the legislation-public relations committee also:

MEDICAL BENEFITS — Asked for cost estimates to hike major medical benefits for employees and directors from $10,000 to $25,000, and to hike payments for hospitalization from $30 to $60 a day.

FERRY — Rejected a proposal to pay an additional annual premium of $725 to insure the Sausalito ferry against vandalism. The committee agreed that security was adequate to protect the ferry from vandals.

PUBLIC RELATIONS — Recommended hiring the San Francisco public relations firm of Arnold and Palmer and Noble to continue as district consultants at a maximum fee of $6,000 each three months, plus costs. The firm did the public relations work on the district's long-range transit plan at a fee of $47,500.

BONDS — Invited a Marine amputee to provide samples of his frames for possible use to mount retired district bonds to be given to V.I.P.s and sold as souvenirs.

SOUVENIRS — Asked the district attorney to determine if the district could sell as souvenirs pieces of suspender ropes as they are replaced.

FILM — Rejected an offer by retired Life photographer Peter Stackpole of Oakland to sell the district his film of the bridge's construction for $650. District files already had similar film, the staff reported.

ABAG — Rejected a proposal that the district join the Association of Bay Area Governments as cooperating members at an annual cost of $300. The committee agreed joining ABAG would be irrelevant since ABAG's transportation planning has been turned over to the new Metropolitan Transportation Commission.

REPORT — Recommended free distribution of reprinted volumes of the Chief Engineer's Final Report to 429 officials, libraries and universities. The volumes, printed at a cost of $15 each, were a reprint of the original engineering report on construction of the bridge in the 1930s.

YOUNG CRUSADER

10-Year-Old Is Petitioning GM For Smog-Free Engine

By ERIK M. INGRAM

Ten-year-old Randy Logan has a bone to pick with the president of General Motors.

What's bothering the bright-eyed Ross fifth grader is the automobile industry's failure to come up with a smoke-free engine.

He doesn't like it and plans — through a petition —to bring a little pressure to bear on the country's largest automaker.

He's not quite sure who the president of GM is, but once Randy gets a few hundred more signatures, he plans to find out.

"Being the biggest, they're (GM) responsible for the most exhaust and contamination," young Randy said the other day. "I think it's serious, not something to laugh at. Something has to be done."

With that in mind, Randy last week started kind of a children's crusade against the gas-fed engine.

""People feel strongly about pollution," his petition to GM says, "so we think that since you are brilliant thinkers, that you can find a way of making non pollutable (sic) engines."

His petition, circulated primarily among his pals at Ross School, already has more than 170 signatures, but that's not enough for Randy.

"I'm trying to get more than 1,000 before I send it," Randy said, adding he hopes to get another 800 signatures from students at San Rafael's Coleman School, which he used to attend.

His petition, however, isn't restricted to the younger set. Several of his signatures have come from strangers met on his door-to-door campaign in Ross.

"Most people are interested and willing to sign," he said, adding he has only been rebuffed once. "He didn't give a reason," Randy said.

Randy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Warren B. Logan of 40 Southwood Avenue, thought of the petition idea at school.

"We were just discussing pollution and everything and I thought it would be a good idea," he said.

Other students, he said, are drafting petitions and letters to the Marin Municipal Water District protesting the fouling of Phoenix Lake.

Randy, who pumps his bicycle about a half-mile to school each day, considers that mode of travel as most sensible.

"Most people could be riding bikes," he said. "I do except when I have to go to the city (San Francisco.)"

After he straightens out the mammoth GM corporation, Randy said he plans to take on a somewhat smaller foe — Chrysler Corp.

BCDC Ends Cove Proposal Round

By GEORGE NEVIN

SAN FRANCISCO — Opponents of Paul J. Broman's 96-unit Strawberry Cove apartment plan yesterday took up where they left off two weeks ago and criticized the proposal, especially what they view as its threat to the Cove's fragile marshland.

In a hearing before the Bay Conservation and Development commission, continued from March 4, conservationists and Strawberry residents repeatedly asked BCDC members to "draw the line" on bayshore development and reject the application.

Broman must obtain a BCDC permit because he proposed to build a boardwalk over the bay and because the site lies within 100 feet of the bay, over which the commission has jurisdiction.

After 90 minutes of testimony, chairman Melvin B. Lane closed the hearing on the plan, which has stirred up public protest in near-record amounts.

Lane said the commission will review the report of its staff, discuss Broman's application and vote April 15.

The Peacock Gap developer proposed to build 96 apartments in six separate buildings on 6.7 acres of existing fill between Seminary Drive and Strawberry Cove. Other features of the plan are a swimming pool, a public boat ramp and the boardwalk.

Four speakers, including conservationist Elizabeth C. Terwilliger, said they favored Broman's plan.

"He (Broman) owns the property and I think he should be permitted to build on it — within certain limits," Mrs. Terwilliger said. "I've been trying to educate him and he's been working with us to preserve the marsh."

The proposal, being developed with Broman's cooperation, involves dredging three shallow channels in the cove and using the spoils to form a series of bars. Cord grass, a valuable link in the cove's life cycle, would be planted on the bars, thus expanding the marshland, which conservationists claim is being endangered by the apartment plan.

John E. Peterson, of 150 Greenwood Way, Mill Valley, also supported Broman's proposal, saying, "He owns the land and should be allowed to develop it as he sees fit."

Also speaking in favor of the apartments were Belvedere City Councilman Allan Steinau, the architect who prepared the original plans for owner Leonard B. Fleischman; Kenneth Klaiman, Broman's attorney, and Ronald M. Grunt, of 367 Strawberry Drive.

Attorney Douglas B. Ferguson of Mill Valley, representing the Save San Francisco Bay Association, cricized plans to build a boardwalk to provide access.

"It's no good to rob the people of access by building apartments and then build a boardwalk to restore it. It's your job to protect that access in the first place," he told commissioners.

Read into the record was a letter from Alfonzo Molina, director of the College of Marin's Marine Biology Center in Bolinas.

"Even a subtle change runs the risk of upsetting the balance" in Strawberry Cove, Molina wrote. "The cove contains one of the few remaining concentrations of cord grass in Richardson Bay."

Also read was a statement by schoolteacher Daniel Campbell, who said he takes groups of children to the marsh but would stop if the apartments were built. "Shorebirds would be driven away by the noise of people, cars and dogs," he said.

Evan B. Hirsch, co-chairman of the Save Strawberry Cove Committee, which has spearheaded opposition to the apartments, cited two reasons for rejecting the permit: Seminary Drive was intended to be a parkway, and public access would be denied.

"The bay plan (prepared by BCDC) shows that Richardson Bay is under study for a possible shoreline park," he said. "We're asking you to draw the line and not perpetuate the errors of the (Marin County) planning commission and board of supervisors." Both bodies approved the apartment plant.

Among 247 letters received in opposition were messages from William Penn Mott Jr., director of the state Department of Parks and Recreation, who called the apartments "...a most unattractive replacement for a natural shoreline (wildlife) habitat."

Other letters against the plan came from Peter D. Whitney, executive director of the Scenic Roads Association, and E. Allen Arnold, chairman of Zero Population Growth of Marin.

After testimony from 11 other persons, all against Broman's proposal, Lane closed the hearing and remarked: "I don't ever remember an application where so many people have felt so strongly about the ecological aspects of a development."

Marin Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni Jr., serving as alternate to Supervisor Michael Wornum told the commission he had voted for Broman's plan as a supervisor.

"I wish all these people here had been present when we considered it," he said. "I certainly wouldn't have supported it. I had no idea there was so much concern about the marsh."

Another Broman plan for 90 units on the same site will be considered by the Marin County Planning Commission May 24. Broman would withdraw that application, however, if BCDC approves the 96-unit plan.

Two Peninsula Men Found Dead Of Gun Wounds In West Marin

Two Peninsula men were found dead in West Marin yesterday, both the victims of self-inflicted gunshot wounds, in unrelated incidents.

The dead men were identified as James Leonard Turnage, 40, of Palo Alto, and Armand John Beuille, 61, of Daly City. Both died of head wounds, according to Deputy Coroner Bill J. Thomas.

Turnage's body was found in Tomales Bay State Park after a ranger noticed that a white 1964 Porsche had been parked by the roadside for 24 hours. He checked the car about 2:55 p.m. yesterday and found a note in it saying that the body was up the hill a few feet.

Turnage was a tool designer and his survivors include a brother, Ralph Boring of Shingle Springs, El Dorado County.

The second man's body was found in his car about 20 miles north of Point Reyes on Shoreline Highway after a resident noticed that the car had been there since Sunday.

Beuille, a salesman for Larraburu Brothers Bakery, was found slumped on a pile of laundry in the front seat with a rifle leaning on his body, Thomas said.

He had been missing a week, Thomas said, and San Francisco police had issued a bulletin seeking his whereabouts.

ALMANAC

Today is Friday, March 19., the 78th day of 1971.

The moon is in its last quarter. The morning stars are Venus, Mars and Jupiter. The evening stars are Mercury and Saturn.

Those born on this day are under the sign of Pisces.

On this day in history:

In 1906 the new Hotel Traymore in Atlantic City, N.J., trying to prove it was modern, advertised "Twenty-five private baths, capacity 450."

In 1917 the Supreme Court ruled that the Adamson Act, signed by President Woodrow Wilson in 1916 and providing for an eight-hour work day on railroads, was constitutional.

In 1942 all men in the United States between the ages of 45 and 64, about 13 million, were ordered to register with the selective service boards for non military duty.

A thought for today: Irish poet Osborne Davis said, "Come in the evening, or come in the morning, come when you're looked for, or come without warning."

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

The Extra 10 Points Is Key Difference In Tourney Play

If you visit the national bridge tournament in Atlanta you'll discover that it's an unusual spectator sport: the players pay, but the kibitzers are admitted free of charge. You'll also discover that in an unusually large number of hands the final contract is notrump. The extra 10 points lure tournament players into unsafe contracts.

Opening lead — ◇ J

Most rubber bridge players would eventually bid six spades with the South hand. The suit contract is often safer than no-trump, and there may be an extra play because of the trump suit. Many tournament experts would bid six no-trump in the hope of scoring 1,440 instead of just 1,430 points.

Curiously enough, the expert would go down at six spades, but makes six no-trump. The "safety" of the trump suit would lead declarer astray.

At six spades, declarer would win the first diamond and lead out the ace of spades. The bad trump break would defeat South, but his play would be logical. He would plan to cash the other diamond, run three clubs and then give up a trump trick. If the trumps broke normally, and West won, he would be unable to make a safe return. Even if East won the second round of trumps, South could still fall back on the heart finesse.

SAFETY PLAY

South cannot hope to catch West in an end play at no-trump because even if West had K-x of spades he would return a club or a diamond to get out safely. At no-trump, therefore, South must find out whether or not to play the spades in the safest possible way.

SPADE PROTECTION

Declarer takes the first trick with dummy's ace of diamonds in order to try the heart finesse at once. When this works, South leads a low spade. This unusual spade play protects him against a 3-0 break. East captures dummy's queen with the king of spades, but declarer later gets to dummy with a club to finesse through East's jack of spades.

DAILY QUESTION

♠ - Q 8 7 3
♥ - J 5 3 2
♦ - A 5
♣ - A J 8.
What do you say?

ANSWER: Pass.

You have 12 points in high cards and one point for the doubleton, enough for an optional opening bid. You decline to bid in this case because you have neither good intermediates nor a really good suit.

San Francisco Quake Warning

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—An earthquake expert told San Francisco supervisors Wednesday that the city "is overdue" for a major earthquake.

"San Francisco officials should assume that a major quake will occur at any time," Dr. Robert Hamilton of the National Center for Earthquake Research, told a special committee of the Board of Supervisors.

Hamilton was one of 10 persons who testified before the group looking into ways of preparing for any earthquake disaster.

Birth Booster

HUDIKSVALL, Sweden (UPI)—Too few children are born in the village of Norrbo in the northern province of Haelsingland in Sweden.

To increase the birth rate a local branch of the Center party has promised all members who have children this year a bonus of 200 kronor ($40).

McColl Is Named Trustee

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — William McColl, former Stanford University all-American and an unsuccessful candidate for Congress, yesterday was appointed to the State College Board of Trustees by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

McColl, 40, is a West Covina orthopedic surgeon and president of the state Board of Public Health. He was defeated by John Rousselot in a bid for Congress at the last June primary election.

Reagan also named to the board Mrs. Winifred H. Lancaster of Santa Barbara and Wendell W. Witter of San Francisco, a partner and member of the board of Dean Witter and Co. Each is a Republican.

They succeed Theodore Meriam of Chico, Albert J. Ruffo of San Jose and E. Litton Bivans of Glendale, who died.

McColl was an all-American end for the Stanford University football team in the early 1950s and later financed his medical education by playing pro football for the Chicago Bears.

Witter, 60, is a member of the advisory Coordinating Council for Higher Education. Last year he served on the University of California Board of Regents as the president of the UC Alumni Association.

Both McColl and Witter were named to full eight-year terms while Mrs. Lancaster was appointed to fill Ruffo's term which will expire in 1977.

She is a member of the governing board of the California Community Colleges and has served as president of the American Association of University Women.

TELEVISION REVIEW

Johnson Satisfies The Tube's Maw

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Arte Johnson, a gifted and intelligent character comedian with the rare ability to combine slapstick and satire in a precise way, had his own one-hour special on NBC-TV Thursday night.

He is, of course, best known for his long duty on the "Laugh-In" series. And before getting around to discussing his special, it might be worth noting for a moment just how remarkable his character humor is. Consider:

Television is known for quickly using up and wearing out the routines and characterizations that performers spend years, or even a lifetime, perfecting. The home screen medium, therefore, can be simply terrifying to such stylists, including certain comedians. It is an old joke that longevity often comes to video stars who don't do anything too well.

And yet here we have Arte Johnson, who has perfected a number of comedy characters all his own, and has done them virtually week in and week out for nearly the entire run of "Laugh-In," and succeeded brilliantly with them, and they are as fresh and funny today as in the beginning —maybe funnier. His quality has been consistent. And so he has conquered the voracious appetite of the home screen. And that is why he is remarkable.

"Ver-r-ry Interesting" was the name of Johnson's special, and the small, ingratiating, Chicago-born performer, who was a journalism major at the University of Illinois, had his mad comedy creations on hand: The helmeted German soldier, the mumbling dirty old man, the little Russian with his greased-down hair and tacky double-breasted suits, and the boring professor whose lectures put everyone to sleep.

They are a marvelous collection. And these four characters, along with guest-stars Elke Sommer and Bing Crosby, and straight man Peter Marshall, were really all that Johnson needed. Unfortunately, however, several other comedy types, Billy De Wolfe and Joe Flynn, were given too much prominence with routine material early in the show, and this slowed down the proceedings for a while.

Once this was out of the way, however, along with a mediocre sketch in which Johnson's Russian creation played John Paul Jones (and gallantly tried to overcome the material), the hour picked up just fine, and by the end was plenty of fun. My only real regret was that the Russian —my favorite character in the Johnson repertoire — didn't get around to singing one of his wildly improbable, superbly funny songs.

Miss Sommer, meanwhile, was used intelligently for a change, taking advantage of her comedy talent. She was ideal as a foil for the German soldier. And, in an inspired production number credited to the soldier, she broke into a heavily Germanic version of a Hawaiian medley. If it wasn't as black in humor or as brilliant as the "Springtime for Hitler" musical production number in Mel Brooks' movie "The Producers," it was still pretty funny in a more innocent, yet satirical, manner

Johnson, of course, was pretty funny too —all four of him. Or five, or six, or whatever.

Assurance Of Prompt Judge Hunt

The chief justice of the California Supreme Court has assured a Marin judge that he will act as quickly as possible to get another judge for the Angela Y. Davis-Ruchell Magee case.

Judge Joseph G. Wilson of Marin Superior Court said today that Chief Justice Donald R. Wright told him yesterday that "he would get right on it."

A judge assigned earlier to the case by the state's judicial council, over which Wright presides, dropped out Wednesday when he was challenged by San Quentin inmate Magee.

It has been estimated that it will probably take about three weeks to get another judge assigned to the case.

Meanwhile, Miss Davis, in whose behalf lawyers were ready to proceed with motions before visiting Judge John P. McMurray Wednesday languished in Marin County Jail.

McMurray, a retired Inyo County jurist, withdrew from the case when challenged by a pencil-written motion by Magee, who charged the judge with being biased.

The action abruptly halted a pretrial hearing on motions by Miss Davis, an avowed Communist and former University of California at Los Angeles instructor, for dismissal of all charges and setting of bail.

She and Magee are charged with murder, kidnapping and conspiracy stemming from a shoot-out last August at the Hall of Justice in which four persons, including Judge Harold J. Haley, were killed.

From his home yesterday, McMurray said he "just didn't want to go through a hearing on whether I was prejudiced."

In his chambers Wednesday, he had told attorneys for both sides that he thought he would have a difficult time trying a case with Magee in it. All the attorneys had urged him not to withdraw from the case, according to a clerk's minutes.

Meanwhile, attorneys for Miss Davis, who is accused of buying the guns and helping plan the shoot-out, claimed that her "health is deteriorating in jail" and were preparing an appeal asking that bail be set for her.

Election Taxes?

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) —The California Democratic State Central Committee has called for abolition of voter residency requirements in California and recommended that tax funds be spent to finance election campaigns.

Funds Approved For Miwok Valley School

A state allocation of $822,000 has been approved for construction of Miwok Valley School on St. Francis Drive, the Old Adobe School District board, Petaluma, heard last night.

Schools Supt. Dean D. Magowan said the funds were approved yesterday in Sacramento for a 14-classroom building. He said money apparently was not available for the additional six classrooms the board had requested.

Magowan said he would return to the state this summer to request funding for the addition and perhaps for a fifth school.

Construction bids for Miwok Valley School will be opened April 15.

In other business last night, three trustees were automatically appointed to the board since there is no contest in the scheduled April 20 election.

Three persons had filed for the three positions open on the board. Appointed were incumbent trustees Dora M. Eldredge, a two-year term; John A. Thompson, four-year term, and newcomer Carlton (Bob) Reinaldo.

The Old Adobe School District board also:

LUNCHES — Approved an increase in the school lunch program effective April 1. Student lunches will be raised from 35 to 40 cents and adult lunches from 45 to 50 cents so the program can be more self-sustaining.

EMPLOYMENT — Approved employment of teacher Michael O'Connor at a salary of $7,660 and Thomas Henry as a speech therapist at $7,967. The board also reemployed all current teachers.

Bolinas Hits Snag In Plan For Waste Disposal Unit

A seven-month delay in completion of a waste disposal system for Bolinas and Stinson Beach was approved last night by directors of the Bolinas Community Public Utility District.

The system, originally scheduled for completion in February of 1972, will actually be finished in September of 1972 according to the new plan, Robert Mills of Kennedy Engineers, the district's engineering firm, reported.

New construction in Bolinas has been banned by the Regional Water Quality Control Board, and will remain in effect until the new sewage system is built. The new delay thus will mean a seven-month extension of the regional board's ban.

Mills said the delay was necessary to give the district time to secure financing for the $5.3 million project. In February, the Marin County Board of Supervisors approved the sale of approximately $2 million worth of bonds to finance Bolinas's share in the project. An assessment district for Bolinas will be established this summer, after the necessary public hearings have been held and work on the district completed, Mills said.

Stinson Beach's share in the cost of the system will be $750,000 and the remaining costs will come from federal and state grants.

Mills said plans and specifications for both the proposed treatment plant and collection system will be filed with county supervisors in June. The district expects to call for bids July 20 and award a construction contract Sept. 28. Construction should begin in mid-October and will take 11 months, according to Mills.

Youth Booked In Forgery Case

An 18-year-old San Rafael youth was arrested yesterday morning and charged with forging his father's name to checks totaling $710.

David W. Filante of 33 Wolfe Grade was booked at 8:35 a.m. yesterday by the San Rafael police on two counts of felony and fraudulent possession of checks.

Filante was held in Marin County Jail in lieu of $6,907 bail to appear this afternoon in municipal court.

He is charged with forging Dr. William J. Filante's name to checks dated Jan. 22 and 25, totaling $710.

'Loyal Men Of Tar' And The Good Years

Stand by, northern Marin. Those grizzled old men of College of Marin are going to let their hair down again tonight.

I refer to the Diamond Dandies and Williams Warriors and Pieper Pirates. They call themselves the "Loyal Men of Tar" and they were the colorful, carefree characters who represented the local college in the early post-war years of 1946-48 in anything from football to basketball to baseball to track and pingpong and, yes, even poker.

Their coaches were Arleigh Williams, Irwin "Red" Diamond and Harry Pieper. Their team medic was Dr. Harry Hensler who, I'm afraid, treated more hangovers than pulled muscles.

Tonight's the Loyal Men of Tar's bi-annual reunion at Nave Lanes near Ignacio. With an hour and a half cocktail session preceding a dinner liberally sprinkled with Dago Red, the joint will be jumping.

If I imply these are the Wild Ones, you should have seen them in their prime. I'll never forget one of my first assignments on this paper was to cover the opening of football practice at Kentfield in August of 1946. Arleigh Williams was the new coach and he looked out over his squad, rubbed his hand over his bald pate, and groaned: "First Pearl Harbor, then the atom bomb, and now THIS!!! What next?"

What he saw was about 100 men, a great deal of whom reeked with booze, needed a shave and whose eyes resembled road maps. And their vocabulary would sting the ears of a stevedore. They didn't invent the four-letter word; they just perfected it.

They were the ex-GI's, fresh out of World War II, who were continuing their education, exchanging the conventional Three R's for the Three B's — Booze, Broads and Books. They did their homework at Inspiration Point. In the back seat.

In football, their huddles weren't devoted so much to the next play but to focus all eyes on that blonde broad on the visitors' sidelines. One year, if memory serves, they played an intersectional game at Orange Cost J.C. They provided the "Screwdriver" for the Orange.

In baseball, far beyond the attention of the coach, the Tars would stash a case of suds behind the centerfield fence to put out the fire ignited the night before. The centerfielder had a ball, literally and figuratively.

If you think they were a bunch of has-beens, think again. For they won more than their share of games, particularly the 1948 basketball team that merely won the national junior college championship!

They used the Kentfield campus to vent the steam that built up during the war and they used it successfully. For tonight, I will have the privilege of reminiscing those golden years with about 60 men, the large majority of whom are successes in coaching, teaching, law, politics and business. Not a one of 'em wound up at the Joint known as S.Q.U.

Their camaraderie has been thicker than thieves over these past 25 years. They're a bit paunchier and balder, but they haven't lost that old zing so prevalent in their prime.

Their coaches will be honored guests tonight and so will the good Dr. Hensler.

Those of you who were lucky enough to thrill to those wild and Loyal Men of Tar should pause this day to salute them with a hearty "Voila!" And think back, because, those were the days, my friends, those, indeedy, were the days.

DIG THIS: Leading Marin Catholic High to its 2-0 baseball victory over Rancho Cotate on St. Patrick's Day were Don O'Bianchini, Paul McRiccardi and Dominic O'Pomilia — adopted Irishmen, or better known as Mediterranean Micks.

THE HORSE "One Only," owned by San Rafael barber John Muelrath, came home a winner paying $11 at Golden Gate Fields last week. It's due to run again soon, so keep an eye on the charts.

A Victorious Day In Prep Baseball

Three Marin County Athletic League baseball teams won yesterday in preseason-non league games outside the county. Redwood High School edged Montgomery at Santa Rosa, 2-1, Novato got by St. Elizabeth's in Oakland, 3-2, and Tamalpais knocked off John Swett of Crockett, 7-3 in Rodeo.

The Giants of Larkspur got a sparkling, four-hit pitching performance out of Gene Frey, and a clutch, run producing single by outfielder Bob Gorman in their win. Frey, a sophomore, ran out of steam in the last inning, but John Moresco came in and stopped a bases loaded rally by retiring the first batter he faced.

John Kidder went all the way on the mound and Randy Jackson backed him up with a home run in the second inning to account for Novato's victory. Kidder, who limited St. Liz to just four hits, helped himself with a run batted in. Jackson's homer, over the left field fence, was a solo blast.

Kevin Brink slammed a double and pitched two effortless innings of relief to lead Tam past John Swett. Alton Hardy also had a double for the Mill Valley team.

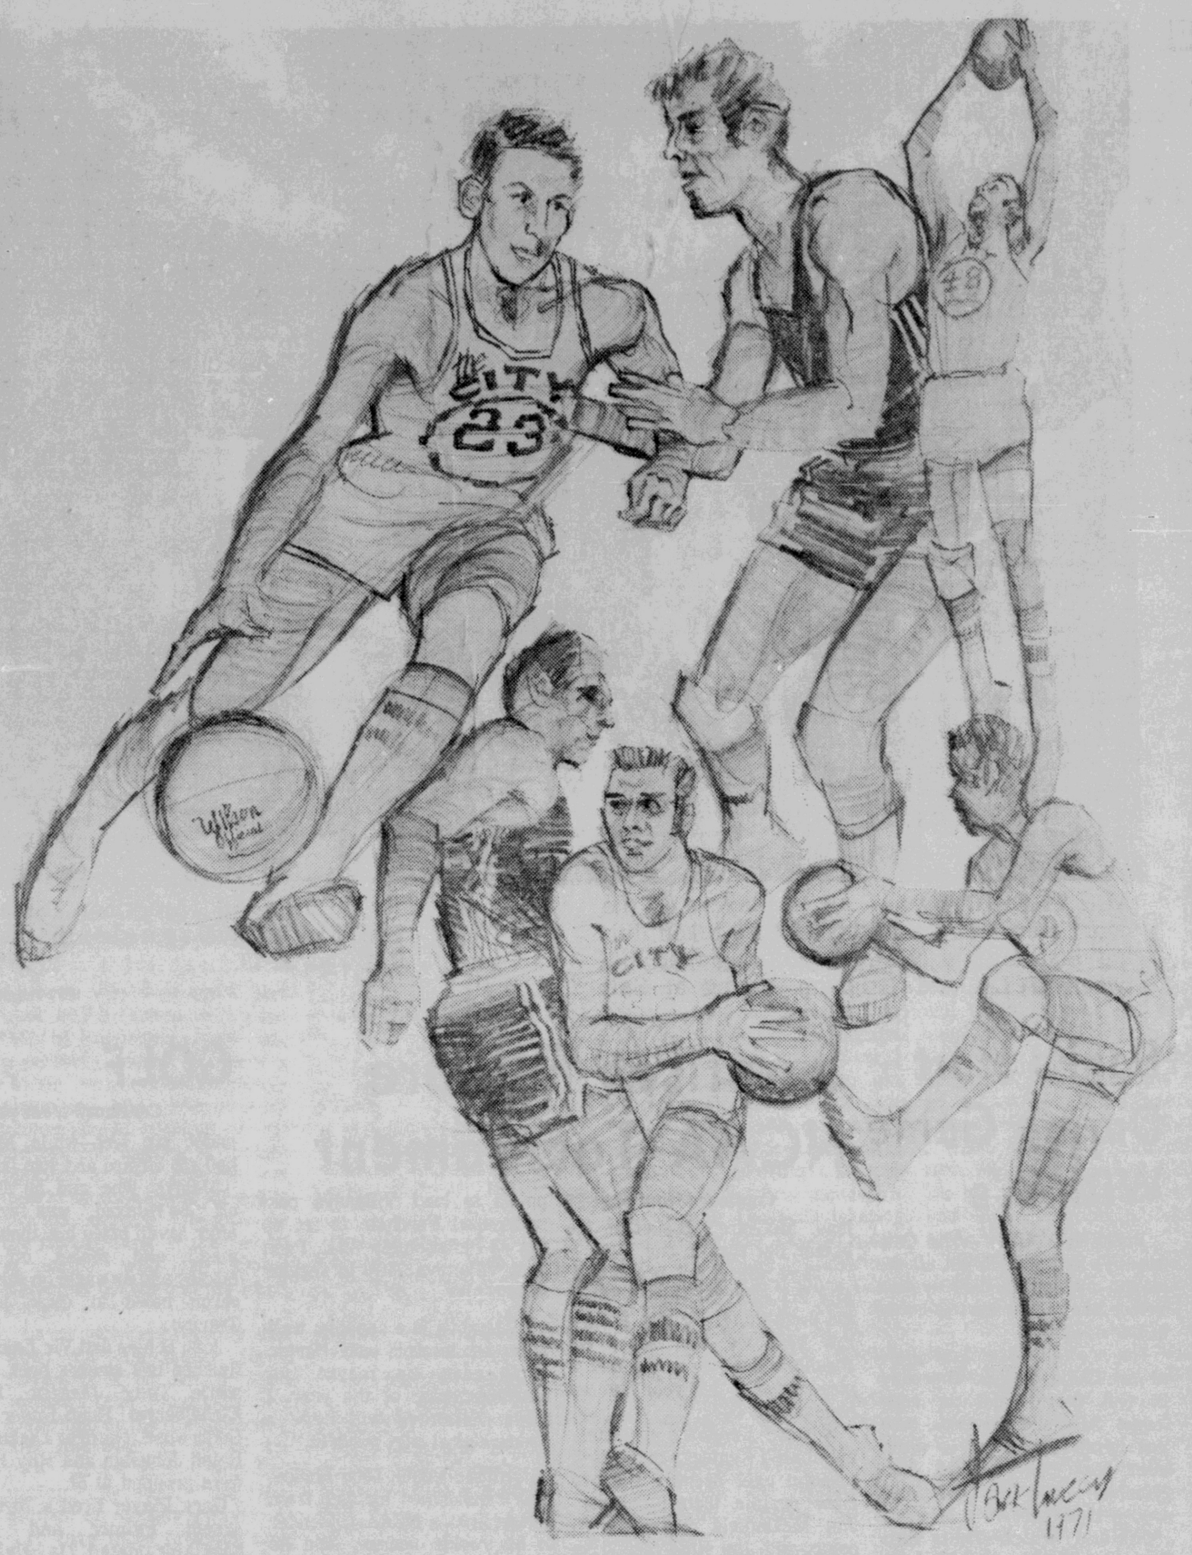
Terra Linda Netters Win

Terra Linda High School's tennis team won its third preseason match of the season yesterday, 4-3 over Galileo of San Francisco. The Trojans, who split two doubles matches and won three of five singles matches, have not been beaten yet this year.



WARRIORS MAKE IT TO PLAYOFFS

Independent-Journal artist Jack Lucey depicts the San Francisco Warriors in action after they clinched a playoff berth in the National Basketball Association last night by beating Chicago, 91-85. Sketched are Jeff Mullins (23), Nate Thurmond (42) and Jerry Lucas (32).

WARRIORS 'IN'

Bring On The Bucks

CHICAGO (UPI) —The San Francisco Warriors are in the National Basketball Association playoffs this season, thanks to guys like Jeff Mullins, Nate Thurmond and Bill Russell.

Mullins observed his 29th birthday Thursday by hitting 29 points in helping the Warriors pull out the 91-85 victory at tough Chicago, which also wanted the win to cinch a playoff berth.

That was the first time Mullins had hit under 30 points in five games.

Thurmond, who is also 29, poured in 29 himself.

It was early in the score when the Warriors were going poorly and Thurmond was just playing himself into shape that the retired Boston Celts immortal called Thurmond and told him to forget salary and health problems and just play the basketball of which he was capable.

Thurmond who termed Russell's call "a hell of a gesture," wound up with his finest season and was a tower of strength during the final month.

Coach Al Attles said "defense was the answer" to the victory and credited Thurmond and Clyde Lee, who held Chicago's high-scoring Bob Love to 20 points. Two weeks ago the Bulls beat the Warriors 130-103 and Love scored 44.

The Warriors also assured themselves of at least a .500 season, having a 41-40 record going into Sunday's finale at Seattle.

PLAYOFFS TO START MARCH 27

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The San Francisco Warriors announced today their western conference semi-final home playoff games in the national basketball association would be played March 27, April 1 and April 6 at the Oakland Coliseum.

It previously had been announced that the Milwaukee Bucks, the Warriors' opening opponent, had scheduled their home playoffs for March 29 and 30 and April 4 and 8 at the University of Wisconsin gymnasium at Madison.

Warrior tickets will be sold in three-game sets. Prices for each ticket will be at $8, $6 and $5.

Tam Ends Dual Meet Swimming

Tamalpais High School, which fielded Marin County's first high school swimming team and last year posted a 12-2 record in varsity swimming, has disbanded its team and will not compete in any more Marin County Athletic League dual meets this year.

George Gustafson, athletic director at the Mill Valley school, said today that because of a turnout of fewer than a dozen boys, the team is unable to compete on a dual meet level, but he added, "We're going to have a team in the MCAL qualification meet."

Principal Ray Bell said that the matter will be brought before the MCAL athletic directors at a meeting next Monday night, but he indicated that the team, which was forced to forfeit a meet for the first time in history Tuesday against Redwood, is being disbanded.

The team's problems began when, following the resignation of coach Conrad Hoetger, at the end of last season, a new coach could not be chosen from the Tam faculty. "We simply did not have anyone with the ability or the desire to coach the team," said Bell. Tam finally signed Bob Casci, a teacher and swim coach at Marin Catholic at Kentfield, to the job after that school decided because of a poor turnout to drop swimming.

San Rafael Ends Tam's Golf Streak

Tamalpais High School's 43-match winning streak came to an end yesterday when San Rafael High defeated the Indians, 207-218 in a preseason golf match at Peacock Gap in San Rafael.

Mike Stump and Mike Doris each shot 39 to lead the Bulldogs, while Jeff Bricker fashioned a 37 to take medalist honors for Tam. No one else on the Mill Valley team came in under 40 however.

The streak was the longest for any MCAL team in any sport after Redwood's 50-match tennis streak came to an end Monday.

San Rafael 207, Tamalpais 218

San Rafael — Mike Stump, 39; Mike Doris, 39; Steve Peterle, 41; Tim Gennaro, 42; Mark Janusch, 46.

Amateur Playing Like Pro

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI) —Brash young amateur Steve Melnyk, who considers himself a player just like the pros, hit the shot of his life to earn a tie with jovial Lee Trevino entering today's second round of the Greater Jacksonville Open.

Melnyk, a 228-pounder, exploded from a trap 70 yards away to within five feet on the final hole and canned the birdie putt to equal Trevino at six-under-par 66 Thursday.

"That was the best shot I've ever hit in competition," said the 24-year-old Melnyk, a long hitter playing on his home course—the 6,943-yard Hidden Hills Country Club.

Asked how he felt as an amateur to tie Trevino, a former U. S. Open champion and the tour's leading money winner last year, Melnyk replied crisply, "I consider myself a player as well as anyone else."

Leading a PGA event is not new to Melnyk, the 1969 U. S. amateur champion. He led the Heritage Classic after 36 holes last year before fading to finish in a tie for 11th. He is the only amateur in the $125,000 event.

Melnyk said he has considered turning professional many times, and a victory in this tournament "would certainly have a bearing on what my future might be."

Trevino, who has played in only six tournaments this year because of his mother's illness, wielded a new putter called "the judge" as he posted a sizzling 30 on the front nine before playing the back nine at even par.

"I hit the ball just as well on the back nine but I just didn't make the putts," said Trevino. "It's been so damn long since I was six under on the front that I got scared."

Trevino joked that he didn't want to start sounding like Arnold Palmer, who has complained of putting woes recently. "He (Palmer) can't make a putt but he shoots 18-under each week," quipped Trevino. "He must be driving all the par fours."

Both Trevino and Melnyk eagled the 525-yard fifth hole with 25-foot putts. Trevino also sank four short birdie putts—all

NCAA OPENERS

Bruins Romp; Some Surprises

By U.P.INTERNATIONAL

UCLA's methodical NCAA express churned on, but that was the only thing predictable about Thursday night's regional semi-finals.

Surprise was the name of the game and there were shocks in all four regionals.

There was Ohio State, the Big Ten champion, upsetting second-ranked Marquette 60-59, ending the Warriors' 39-game winning streak, and Western Kentucky routing Kentucky 107-83, the worst tournament beating ever for Adolph Rupp's Wildcats in the Mideast...

There was Bobby Jones holding Player of the year Austin Carr well below his season's average as Drake ousted Notre Dame 79-72 in overtime and Kansas having to rally to stop Houston 78-77 in the Midwest . . . There was Long Beach State coming back from a 13-point deficit at halftime to beat inspired Pacific 78-65 in the West . . .

And finally there was undefeated and underrated Pennsylvania stopping South Carolina 79-64 to set up a "Philadelphia final" in the Eastern Regionals against Villanova, an 85-75 conqueror of Fordham.

UCLA, looking for a fifth consecutive NCAA basketball title, looked ready as it steamrollered Brigham Young 91-73. The Bruins, the nation's No. 1 team, will meet Long Beach State in Saturday's Western Finals, a rematch of last year's regional windup. In other regional finals, Kansas will face Drake and Western Kentucky tangles with Ohio State.

The winners will advance to Houston for the national semi-finals next Thursday and the NCAA title game, Saturday, March 27.

"UCLA simply intimidated us on the boards," said Pete Witbeck, a Brigham Young assistant who is helping run the team while Head Coach Stan Watts is ill. "We were losing the ball on our own end of the court, simply throwing it away."

The Bruins, with a perfectly balanced attack, got 15 points from Henry Bibby, 14 from Sidney Wicks and 13 each from Curtis Rowe and Steve Patterson.

Jerry Tarkanian, the Long Beach coach, is anxious for a rematch. "Everybody wants to play the No. 1 team and there's no doubt about it, UCLA is No. 1," said Tarkanian after watching his club stumble early in the game and then rebound with a devastating pressing defense.

Fred Taylor, the Ohio State coach, also felt his club was "intimidated" on the boards by Marquette, but was happy with the result. "We were scared to death at the start," said Taylor, whose club fell 13 points behind early in the first half.

Oddly it was Allie McGuire, son of Marquette coach Al McGuire, who proved instrumental in the loss. Ohio State led 58-57 when McGuire lost the ball when he stepped out of bounds with seven seconds left. McGuire then fouled Allan Hornyak, who dropped in two foul shots to give the Buckeyes a three-point

Tars Rip DeAnza Nine, 7-1

Nobody knows better than College of Marin pitchers that heaven helps those who help themselves. Yesterday it was redhead Dennis Bueler, repeating teammate Jerry Goodrich's feat of Tuesday, who slammed three hits and pitched a complete game as the Tars of Kentfield routed De Anza Junior College in Cupertino, 7-1.

As was the case in their Camino Norte Conference opener against Skyline J.C., the contest was no contest after the first inning. Second baseman Mike Parnow opened with a triple, Dee Fedrick doubled to score him, and Larry Brazda singled to score Fedrick. Those two runs were all Bueler needed. He cruised to a five-hitter, with only one troublesome inning, and struck out eight.

The 1970 graduate of San Marin High School, working on a four-run lead after five innings, made things even more comfortable for himself when he tripled home Steve Hendrickson and Bob Sutherland in the sixth. Both of those worthies had a pair of hits, Sutherland's both doubles. Bueler's other hits were singles.

The only rough spot for Bueler and Co., came in the fifth, when De Anza loaded the bases with nobody out. But Tar centerfielder Ken Roby put a stop to the nonsense by doubling up the Dons' lead runner Don Lorenz with a perfect throw to the plate. Marin coach Vic Petreshene cited that as the play of the game, after which De Anza played minus inspiration, and Bueler coasted.

Marin's next CNC game is tomorrow, at Kentfield against Solano J.C., beginning at 1 p.m. Petreshene has named Goodrich, the winner in the Skyline game, to go against the tough Falcons.

Hard Work Interferes With Giant's Romance

PHOENIX — Frank Reberger would like to get a couple of days off so he can get married to Marjorie Hearne, a beautiful blonde from San Francisco whose parents live in Phoenix. Miss Hearne took her vacation early this year to watch her fiance in his determined drive to win a pitching promotion with the Giants.

Reberger is seeking the No. 3 starting assignment and at the moment he is the leading candidate for the job. If he went to Charlie Fox and asked for a couple of days off, the manager of the Giants probably would approve his request. Fox is all for marriage. He is a married man himself.

BUT THE spring training schedule of the Giants is a solid six weeks of exhibition games this year. The schedule doesn't list one day off. Fox, of course, has given individual players days off, even pitchers. However, the spring routine of pitchers is different from that of other members of the team. Pitchers must do lots of running and limbering up exercises between mound assignments.

Furthermore, if a pitcher interrupted his routine it might take him several days to get back in it. So Reberger and Miss Hearne probably will postpone their marriage. There will be time enough for that after Reberger has won his promotion.

"IT'S THERE for the taking," said the 6-5 righthander who is so streamlined at 202 that he looks thin. "And I'm determined to take it. I'm confident, free of any mental doubts. After all, 70 per cent of this game is mental. At least, pitching is."

Reberger credits Miss Hearne for his new mental attitude. "She is a wonderful girl," said Reberger. "Marjorie has helped me immeasurably."

THERE DEFINITELY was a change in Reberger last season after he met Miss Hearne. That was nine months ago. At the time Reberger was in the bullpen as a relief pitcher, just as he had been with the Padres from whom the Giants acquired him in the winter of 1969 for three players — Bob Barton, Bob Etheridge and Ron Herbel.

On July 10 Reberger won his first major league game as a starter, beating Houston in the Astrodome. Thereafter, he stayed in the starting rotation and wound up with a 7-8 record. Because he only won two, lost three of his last starts near the end of the 1970 season he knew he would have to prove himself this spring for a permanent starting assignment.

SO, ASIDE from the determined mental approach, how does he hope to win his promotion? After all, batters are not intimidated by a pitcher's positive thinking.

"First of all," said Reberger, "I've gone all the way to the top with my delivery. Larry Jansen insisted on that. The overhand delivery gives me more power on my fast ball. I've never had any curve worthy of mention but Jansen has been working with me on an offspeed one."

THE PTICHING coach of the Giants also has taught Reberger how to hide the ball better. When Reberger threw out of a three-quarter slot last season he tipped his pitches.

But Reberger's bread-and-butter pitch, the one with which he hopes to put some cookies on the table for himself and his fiancee, is his fast ball. When he grips it parallel to the seams it sinks. When he grips it across the seams it runs with a tailing action that resembles a hard slider.

Banks Hurt During Game With A's

PHOENIX (UPI) —The Oakland A's hope they'll get all the sloppy ones out of their system before the games start to count in the standings.

The A's fell 9-8 at Scottsdale to the Chicago Cubs Thursday in one they'd just as soon forget. So would the Cubs, who lost Ernie Banks for a while after he took a bad hop grounder over the eye and needed 12 stitches.

Oakland, which meets San Francisco today, managed 14 hits off three Chicago pitchers including two by Tony LaRussa, who is making a determined bid to stick on the varsity.

The A's, now 7-6 for the spring, also reported receiving a telegram from league president Joe Cronin. It said visiting managers would decide whether or not to go along with Charlie Finley's experimental three-ball walk rule.

"They were well prepared," said the elder McGuire. "They did their thing. We won 39 in a row and we won some we shouldn't have won. We had a nice run at it this year and we hope to be back."

Western Kentucky absolutely humiliated Kentucky in the first meeting ever between the two clubs despite their proximity. Jim McDaniels poured in 35 points and Jim Rose had 25 as the Hilltoppers moved out to a 13-point halftime lead.

"We were ready to play," said Western Coach John Oldham. "I never said anything all week in an effort to get them up. It was the type of game you don't have to get a team up for."

Another McGuire, South Carolina Coach Frank, also was unhappy as he saw his team fall before a well-honed Penn attack. "Penn played a great ball game, said McGuire. "They outplayed us and they deserved to win. In a game like this, whoever gets three or four points ahead in the second half will usually win and they did. They're the best team we've faced all year."

Penn, led by Bob Morse's 28-point effort, hit 31 of 35 foul shots to win.

Penn coach Dick Harter was pleased with his club's pressure performance. "Our free throws show the kind of players we have and the type of competitors they are," said Harter.

Howard Porter scored 25 points to lead Villanova past undersized Fordham to set up the all-Philadelphia final. Penn beat Villanova 78-70 in regular season play.

"Villanova is a capable, well-balanced team," said Harter. "and gave us maybe our toughest game of the year. I think Villanova will have a psychological edge going in."

Fordham Coach Dick Phelps, who transformed his club from a loser into a NCAA contender in his rookie season, said he was "happy with the year we had. We tried, we did our best."

Drake used Jones and Al Sakys, a pair of 6-1 guards, to beat Notre Dame. Jones held Carr to 26 points, 12 below his average, and Sakys tied the game with five seconds left and triggered an overtime burst that carried the Bulldogs past the Fighting Irish.

"He's just another ball player," said Jones, after his confrontation with Carr. "I guard players like him all the time in the Missouri Valley Conference."

Sakys admitted he was "scared" before making the tying basket. "When I looked up at the clock, there were eight seconds left and one of the Notre Dame players tipped the ball to me and I put it up."

Dave Robisch hit 17 points in the first half and junior Bud Stallworth hit seven points in an 11-point burst that pulled Kansas ahead of Houston.

"Kansas just had too many guns for us," said Cougar Coach Guy Lewis. "They're an extremely physical team and they just keep coming at you. Robisch did a great job shooting free throws under pressure."

under six feet—while Melnyk had six birdies and two bogeys.

Melnyk, who said he started off "too relaxed," was two-over after seven holes but then "got mad" and reeled off five birdies and an eagle on the next seven holes to close in on Trevino.

John Schlee and Vic Loustalot finished two strokes back at 68 while Tony Jacklin, Dave Eichelberger, Hugh Royer, Hal Underwood, Gardner Dickinson, Ralph Johnston and Ray Floyd were grouped at 69.

Gary Player fired a 70 while Arnold Palmer and Jack Nicklaus posted 71s. Palmer said he putted well but left "a few iron shots short" while Nicklaus said he played well but "just didn't get anything in the hole."

Veteran Sam Snead fired an 80 and was disqualified for failing to sign his scorecard. Miller Barber was forced to withdraw on the back nine after becoming ill with the flu and Cesar Sanudo was disqualified for turning in an incorrect scorecard.

Giant Combination: Youth, Experience

Everybody knows that it takes a combination of youth and experience to take the flag and that is what the Giants showed in a sparkling 5-1 win over San Diego Thursday.

Jim Barr, a 205-pounder who once helped USC to a national college title, tossed two shutout innings and has yet to give up a run in six frames.

The Giants, who always seem about one good pitcher away from the top, may keep Barr on the varsity this time around to see if he's the man they need. Barr was 6-5 at Amarillo last year, his first as a pro.

Young infielders Bob Heise and Chris Speier also had good days. Heise banged a key triple while Speier at shortstop and Hal Lanier at second combined on three flawless twin killings.

The Giants pounded San Diego starters Tom Phoenbus and Al Santorini for 11 hits and George Foster added points for his bid to stick with the varsity as a fourth outfielder by getting three of the hits.

Catcher Steve Koker and first baseman-outfielder Dave Kingman were sent back to Casa Grande for further assignment.

Raiders Vs. Rams At Cal?

BERKELEY (UPI)—It's up to the University of California Regents to grant permission for the Oakland Raiders and Los Angeles Rams to play at the University of California stadium August 21.

The school and the Raiders are both known to favor the arrangement, but the Regents Thursday refused to hear the matter until a positive university recommendation in writing was received.

The Oakland Coliseum is scheduled to be in use Aug. 21 for an Oakland-Boston Red Sox baseball game. Should the Berkeley deal fall through, the game would be shifted to Los Angeles.

FISH AND GAME

A Shot In The Arm For Papermill Creek

By AL GIDDINGS

Last week I told you about the 34,000 yearling silver salmon to be planted this month in Marin County's Papermill Creek. The fish are expected to go to sea during this April and some will be back in November and December of this year as grisle (a two-year-old salmon). Then in November and December of 1972, the main run of spawning adults will return. This is a real shot in the arm for the Papermill Creek silver salmon fishery.

AS PART of its continuing programs to restore and improve the silver salmon runs in coastal water, the Department of Fish and Game will stock 230,000 yearling silver salmon in six other streams along the north coast. In Mendocino County, Ten Mile River, Noyo River and Big River will all receive plants of year-old silvers.

In Sonoma County, the Russian and the Gualala rivers will be planted. In Santa Cruz Co. the San Lorenzo River is scheduled for plants.

These plants are from the newly completed $2.3 million Mad River hatchery near Blue Lake in Humboldt County. The hatchery will produce an estimated one million yearling silver salmon and steelhead and five million King salmon fingerlings annually.

PLANS FOR raising 700,000 steelhead yearlings are somewhat dependent upon a firm egg supply. The hatchery is California's first production anadromous fish hatchery built by the state to enhance native fisheries. Other hatcheries of this type have been built to make up for losses due to dam construction.

It may be, that in a year or so, steelhead plants will also be made in Papermill Creek.

NEW STATEWIDE standards for the stocking of state-reared game fish were recently adopted by the California Fish and Game Commission. The standards apply to reservoirs under public jurisdiction where lake operators charge access fees in non-profit public fishing programs. The new policy sets a maximum daily access fee of $1 per car or 25 cents per person to offset the lake operator's costs in maintaining public health safeguards, and providing access roads, parking, sanitary facilities, litter cleanup, etc.

I RECEIVED a proposed trout planting schedule for this month. You might start getting your rods and reels oiled up so when the state okays the date release you will be ready! I will give you the word as soon as I receive it.

Rodeo Lagoon, Phoenix, Lagunitas and Bon Tempe lakes seem to be slated for plants possibly this month.

Under the new regulations these four bodies of Marin water have a year round limit of five trout per day. All the rest of the lakes and reservoirs in Marin County have a five-fish limit too, except that from May 1 to Nov. 15 the limit is upped to ten fish per day.

Some people have called me about Davis Lake in Plumas County. It is now open, though to get there might take some doing!

OTHER TROUT NEWS: A small freshwater crab called Pancora may be the key to increasing wild trout production in the 18,000 miles of streams in California. A trout specialist will be sent to Chile, South America to study the feasibility of transplanting this little trout-food crab to California's trout streams.

"California Trout," a sportsmen's group, agreed to underwrite the $5,000 costs of sending an experienced trout stream ecologist to South America for two 45-day periods over a two-year period to select and facilitate exportation of the species of crab most adaptable to California's conditions.

A Giant Leap By Laver

NEW YORK (UPI) —If Rod Laver were an astronaut, he might be talking in terms of small steps and giant leaps.

The little Aussie lefthander has just one small step — tonight's $50,000 showdown with Dutchman Tom Okker at Madison Square Garden —to complete the giant leap that nobody thought was possible in the $210,000 Tennis Champions Classic.

Laver will be shooting for the moon —a clean sweep of the coast-to-coast Classic series which would increase his earnings in the tournament to $160,000.

Laver and Okker each won $15,000 for their semifinal triumphs at the Garden Thursday night. Rocket Rod dumped Dennis Ralston of Bakersfield, Calif., 6-3, 6-4, 7-5, while the flying Dutchman relegated veteran Aussie Roy Emerson to a $5,000 loser's share, 6-4, 2-6, 4-6, 6-3, 6-4.

Laver, who was upset last week in the Dunlop Australian Open by Englishman Mark Cox, is perfectly geared for the rich Classic series. He completely dominated the head-to-head, winner-take-all portion of the tournament, winning 11 straight matches to earn $110,000, and tonight he'll be going all out to cap his rampage. The prize for the Classic final is the richest in tennis, with the winner collecting $35,000 and the loser, $15,000.

Laver admitted recently that when the match-play series started back on Jan. 2, there seemed little possibility for either him or his first opponent, Ken Rosewall, to go all the way. "At the time of that first match," he said, "the final seemed an eternity away."

Is there more pressure now, Rod was asked, since he has traveled from eternity to here?

"Not really," said the cool red-head, who has banked over $137,000 so far this year.

NIT Play To Begin Tomorrow

NEW YORK (UPI)—The National Invitation Tournament can't compete with the NCAA basketball tournament in terms of quality teams, but this year's NIT might just outdo the NCAA when it comes to showmanship.

Forced to settle for conference also-rans and lesser independents, the NIT doesn't command the national respect of the NCAA tournament. However, this year's tournament, which begins Saturday, has a circus-like quality about it which just might make it a major attraction.

For one thing, Madison Square Garden, in an effort to beef up attendance to the early round games, has scheduled a pair of tripleheaders which lends a different approach to the tournament. Secondly, the appearance of Hawaii and Tennessee in the tourney will provide quite a bit of color for the spectators.

Hawaii, which is the first team from outside the continental United States ever to appear in the NIT, features hula girl cheerleaders who throw orchids into the stands, and Tennessee has a pre-game warmup drill that features Globetrotter antics and unicyclists.

The tournament opens at 11 a.m. EST Saturday with North Carolina meeting Massachusetts in the first game of a tripleheader. Louisville takes on Providence and Dayton meets Duke to conclude the afternoon round and the first day's action continues Saturday night with Tennessee opposing St. John's and Georgia Tech meeting LaSalle.

On Sunday there is another doubleheader as first round action continues. Michigan meets Syracuse in the first game and St. Bonaventure takes on Purdue in the nightcap.

Hawaii finally swings into action on Monday against Oklahoma in the first game of a tripleheader to conclude first round play.

SPRINGTIME HAPPINESS

Let's Just Forget 1970, Says A's Reggie Jackson

MESA, Ariz. (UPI)—Reggie Jackson figures he isn't asking much.

All he wants is for everyone to join him in forgetting 1970.

"Let's just say it was a bad year for me," Jackson said the other day while waiting his turn to bat in the Oakland A's training camp. "I've already forgotten it and I wish everyone else would, too."

Specifically, what Jackson is requesting is that newsmen refrain from asking him about his feud last year with Charlie Finley, the volatile A's owner, who now, it turns out, made manager Johnny McNamara the scapegoat for what happened in 1970 between him and his young super star.

"I'm so tired of that story," Jackson said. "I must have been asked about it a dozen times already this spring and we haven't even gone on the road yet. I'll bet that in every town we visit this year someone will come up and ask me a question about Finley.

"Heck, I'm not Finley's keeper. Why doesn't some one go and ask him what happened. I don't see anyone doing that."

When reminded that newsmen had indeed asked Finley for his version of the dispute and then been curtly turned aside, Jackson laughed.

"That's just like him," Jackson said, and then quickly changed the subject to hitting. At that moment, Reggie was involved in a batting contest with Tommy Davis and San Bando. They were playing what the players call "long ball." Each was to get three swings and whoever hit the (all the farthest would be the winner. At stake were cokes.

Bando, the affable A's captain, couldn't get the ball out of the infield. Jackson was even worse off although he has been hitting a lot of homers in exhibition games this spring. He didn't get the ball out of the batting cage, so Davis, a former batting champion who is fighting to win a spare job with the A's, won the contest with a 300-foot fly to center.

The three players went at it again and this time it was no contest since no one was able to get the ball past the infield.

This upset Jackson, who hates to lose at anything, but after a moment he calmed down and laughed —mostly at himself.

"I shouldn't get so excited about little things," Jackson said. "I'm so happy this spring I don't want anything to change the situation. Remember, last year this time I wasn't even in camp."

Jackson caught himself just in time, and laughed again.

"Hey, I said I wasn't going to talk about last year and here I almost got started. No sir, that's all a thing of the past and it won't do anyone any good to bring it up again."

Basically, what happened to Jackson and the A's in 1970 was that in holding out for a better contract Jackson missed all but the last 10 days of training camp. As a result he went into the season far from ready to play. McNamara started him anyway and the harder Reggie tried the worse he got. Finally, McNamara benched him.

But while he sat down during the game Reggie worked extra hard in the batting cage. Just when he was beginning to come around, Finley ordered McNamara to hold him back. Finley's move may have been triggered by Jackson's behavior.

Reggie, miffed at himself more than anyone else, popped off to newsmen he was unhappy with the situation and that no one, least of all Finley, understood him.

Finley, an old-time boss who doesn't take kindly to complaints from the hired help, fired back his regards. Now it was Jackson's turn and he "got even" by refusing to attend a Finley barbeque given in honor of the team. That really miffed Finley.

Later, the two exchanged heated words and once, in full view of fans, Jackson gestured obscenely to Finley from the A's dugout. With this sort of isde play it came as no surprise that Jackson couldn't play to his potential, and so he finished the year with 23 homers.

Reggie, convinced he could come back and that 1970 was not proof of his ability, went to play in the Puerto Rican Winter League and he hit 22 homers. That fact was not lost on Finley and when Reggie finally came home to Tempe, Ariz., Finley called him to discuss a 1971 contract.

"Let's say we were able to agree on a figure and let it go at that," Jackson said of his contract. "All I'll say about it is that I got a small, very small, raise."

"Very simple," replied Jackson.

A Surprise Story Of Panther Death

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (UPI)— The prosecution's surprise witness in the Bobby G. Seale trial testified today that Black Panther Lonnie McLucas told her hours before Alex Rackley was slain that he was going to "knock the brother off. I'll be right back."

The witness, Margaret Hudgins, 23, said Rackley, wr, was marched at gunpoint through the kitchen of an apartment serving as Panther headquarters and led out the back door with his hands tied behind his back.

She said Rackley left with George Sams Jr., and Warren Kimbro, the apartment tenant. She quoted Sams as saying to Kimbro, "I'm going for a ride. Come with me."

Sams already has pleaded guilty to second degree murder in the slaying of Rackley, a New York Panther.

After they left, she testified, "I sat in the living room for awhile and did some typing." She said this occurred on May 20, 1969. Rackley's body was found in a Middlefield bog the next day.

The defense peppered her testimony with objections through the 45 minutes she spent on the stand. A motion concerning Sams' mental competence was not argued because the defense planned to file a memorandum of law on the motion this afternoon.

The defense questioned whether Miss Hudgins' testimony was being admitted on the two conspiracy charges against Seale and Mrs. Ericka Huggins. The state argued it should be admitted under all charges including the aiding and abetting murder charges.

This is not the first time Sams' competency has been questioned. In a previous Panther trial in which he testified for the prosecution he was declared competent. Defense witnesses then termed him a "madman."

Sams has said that Seale came to the New Haven apartment of Warren Kimbro, which was serving as Connecticut Panther headquarters, and gave the order to "off" Rackley. The police say the Panthers suspected Rackley of being an informer.

Marin Faces Billing On Coast Study

I-J Special Report

BERKELEY — Marin, Sonoma, San Francisco and San Mateo counties should pay $33,000 toward the cost of a $100,000 study of an enforceable ocean coastline plan, the Association of Bay Area Governments executive committee decided last night.

Fifty-three city councils and boards of supervisors responded to a poll by ABAG on who should pay for the study, and a majority selected the four coastline counties. Each county's share will be on the basis of its population, but no breakdown was given.

The committee also agreed to apply to the state to pay the remaining $66,000.

In other business, the committee voted to oppose a proposal to replace ABAG with six regional councils in the Bay Area to handle funds from the state and federal governments for criminal justice planning and improvement projects.

The proposal, by a committee of the California Council on Criminal Justice, would make one regional area of Marin, Sonoma, Napa and Solano counties, and give them $40,000 in planning funds next fiscal year. The state gave ABAG $233,000 in criminal justice planning funds this fiscal year.

The state committee also proposed that the four North Bay counties get from $634,000 to $832,000 next fiscal year to improve various criminal justice programs.

Calley Counsel Hits Jury's Slow Analysis

FT. BENNING, Ga. (UPI) — The shirtsleeves jury deliberating the fate of Lt. William L. Calley Jr. went into its third day of painstaking and time-consuming analysis today. The defense was getting restless.

Calley's attorney, George W. Latimer, said he thought the jurors were acting too much like investigators, with some unreasonable requests for pictures and rereading of evidence, and were taking too much time.

The judge, Col. Reid W. Kennedy, said they were to be highly commended for taking their time and being careful.

The six-officer jury was unaware of this exchange between counsel and judge. They plowed ahead into the 52nd court day, and scheduled more testimony rereading.

The government has asked them to convict Calley, who led a platoon in the slaughter of civilians at My Lai, of premeditated murder. That verdict would bring automatic death or life imprisonment. However, the jury could reduce the charges as low as manslaughter.

Calley is accused on four counts of murdering 102 villagers in the Vietnamese hamlet March 16, 1968. The first, on which the jury obviously is working, alleges he and his men shot at least 30 to death at a trail intersection at the south edge of My Lai. At the jury request for more pictures of the scene, they were shown for the first time Thursday 20 color slides of the village, including the trail involved.

Then they returned Thursday night with a request for the rereading of the testimony of six witnesses who had said they observed bodies of men, women, and children at the trail. One had said he witnessed an American soldier shooting them down.

Court reports read them the evidence of the first four, but that of the other two had not been transcribed yet. Kennedy told the jury they would get it after lunch today. It was 8:30 p.m. when he recessed court.

When they left the courtroom, Latimer entered a general objection that "they were going way beyond what is normal" and said henceforth he would insist the entire defense cross-examination be read along with the requested parts from various witnesses.

"I would expect these gentlemen to take their time—they've got an extremely important decision to make," Kennedy said, but added if they went too far he would take steps to stop it.

Latimer said some of the requests were "very unreasonable," and that additional evidence like the slides "at this stage is upsetting."

The judge said he thought the slides were important in judging the terrain, that had he known about them he would have provided them when the jury's request to go to My Lai was turned down.

Mrs. Hoffa Undergoing Heart Tests

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Josephine Hoffa, wife of the imprisoned teamsters union leader, is in a San Francisco hospital for treatment of a painful heart condition.

Dr. Seymour Farber said Thursday Mrs. Hoffa appeared to be in the early stages of a heart attack and is "under the care of a team of doctors who are running all the tests possible."

She was taken to the University of California Hospital.

Mrs. Hoffa had come to San Francisco to attend a Saturday night testimonial dinner for Jack Goldberger, a Teamster leader and longtime friend of her husband.

Goldberger last week resigned as an international organizer for the Teamsters saying he wanted more time to devote to Bay Area Union affairs. He remains president of Newspaper and Periodical Drivers and Helpers Union, Local 921.
